

This is a digital copy of a book that was preserved for generations on library shelves before it was carefully scanned by Google as part of a project to make the world's books discoverable online.

It has survived long enough for the copyright to expire and the book to enter the public domain. A public domain book is one that was never subject to copyright or whose legal copyright term has expired. Whether a book is in the public domain may vary country to country. Public domain books are our gateways to the past, representing a wealth of history, culture and knowledge that's often difficult to discover.

Marks, notations and other marginalia present in the original volume will appear in this file - a reminder of this book's long journey from the publisher to a library and finally to you.

Usage guidelines

Google is proud to partner with libraries to digitize public domain materials and make them widely accessible. Public domain books belong to the public and we are merely their custodians. Nevertheless, this work is expensive, so in order to keep providing this resource, we have taken steps to prevent abuse by commercial parties, including placing technical restrictions on automated querying.

We also ask that you:

- + Make non-commercial use of the files We designed Google Book Search for use by individuals, and we request that you use these files for personal, non-commercial purposes.
- + Refrain from automated querying Do not send automated queries of any sort to Google's system: If you are conducting research on machine translation, optical character recognition or other areas where access to a large amount of text is helpful, please contact us. We encourage the use of public domain materials for these purposes and may be able to help.
- + Maintain attribution The Google "watermark" you see on each file is essential for informing people about this project and helping them find additional materials through Google Book Search. Please do not remove it.
- + Keep it legal Whatever your use, remember that you are responsible for ensuring that what you are doing is legal. Do not assume that just because we believe a book is in the public domain for users in the United States, that the work is also in the public domain for users in other countries. Whether a book is still in copyright varies from country to country, and we can't offer guidance on whether any specific use of any specific book is allowed. Please do not assume that a book's appearance in Google Book Search means it can be used in any manner anywhere in the world. Copyright infringement liability can be quite severe.

About Google Book Search

Google's mission is to organize the world's information and to make it universally accessible and useful. Google Book Search helps readers discover the world's books while helping authors and publishers reach new audiences. REPORT OF THE OHIO BOARD OF PHARMACY.

COLUMBUS, O., November 16, 1891.

HON. D. J. RYAN, Secretary of State:

DEAR SIR: I herewith submit a report of the receipts and expenditures of this Board for the year ending November 15, 1891, together with the names and residences of all persons registered during the same period. The Board held meetings at which examinations were conducted, during the year, as follows: Cincinnati, January 12th; Columbus, March 17th and May 11th; Toledo, July 21st, and Cleveland, October 12th. The total number of persons appearing for examination at these meetings was 635. Of this number 271 were found to be satisfactory, and were registered accordingly—163 as Pharmacists, and 108 as Assistant Pharmacists.

The persons composing the Board at present are as follows:

Charles Krone.....	Hamilton, Ohio
F. T. Bower.....	Toledo, "	Vice-President.
John Weyer.....	Cincinnati, "
G. L. Hechler.....	Cleveland, "	President.
W. R. Ogier.....	Columbus, "	Secretary and Treasurer.

Respectfully Yours,

W. R. OGIER, Secretary.

APPORTIONMENT OF MEMBERS OF THE
GENERAL ASSEMBLY OF OHIO,
1891-1901.

WITH THE COMPLETE RECORD OF THE CASE IN THE SUPREME COURT RELATING THERETO.

INTRODUCTORY.

According to the provisions of the Constitution it is made the duty of the Governor, the Auditor of State and the Secretary of State to determine the representation in the General Assembly, which each county or district shall be entitled to for ten years following each decennial census.

Since the adoption of the Constitution in 1851 there never has been any question or dispute concerning the decennial apportionments. Grave questions, however, arose in making the apportionment of 1890, which resulted in subjecting the action of the constitutional commission, above referred to, to an investigation by the Supreme Court. The questions raised in the case were so important, and the result so authoritative as a precedent, that it has been deemed proper to print herein a full record of every thing in relation thereto.

I have, consequently, compiled the proceedings of the apportionment commission, the record of the case in the Supreme Court, as well as the briefs and arguments thereon. They will prove of historic value and as an addition to the State papers of Ohio will be very important as a basis upon which to proceed in future apportionments.

DANIEL J. RYAN,

Secretary of State.

COLUMBUS, OHIO.

APPORTIONMENT OF THE STATE OF OHIO FOR MEMBERS OF THE GENERAL ASSEMBLY FOR THE FIFTH DECENNIAL PERIOD.

In conformity with the provisions of the Constitution of the State of Ohio, we, James E. Campbell, Governor; Ebenezer W. Poe, Auditor of State, and Daniel J. Ryan, Secretary of State, have ascertained and determined the ratio of representation in the General Assembly according to the decennial census, the number of representatives and senators each county or district shall be entitled to elect, and for what years within the next ensuing ten years, and do declare the same as follows:

The total population of the several counties of the State by the federal census, as ascertained by us, is three million six hundred and seventy-two thousand three hundred and sixteen. The ratio for a representative is thirty-six thousand seven hundred and twenty-four; and for a Senator, one hundred and four thousand nine hundred and twenty-four.

The apportionment for the House of Representatives during the fifth decennial period, under the constitution, shall be as follows:

The counties of Ashland, Athens, Auglaize, Allen, Ashtabula, Brown, Champaign, Clermont, Clinton, Coshocton, Crawford, Defiance, Delaware, Darke, Erie, Fairfield, Fayette, Fulton, Gallia, Greene, Guernsey, Hardin, Henry Holmes, Highland, Huron, Hancock, Jackson, Jefferson, Knox, Lawrence, Logan, Licking, Lorain, Madison, Medina, Meigs, Mercer, Monroe, Morgan, Miami, Noble, Ottawa, Paulding, Perry, Pickaway, Portage, Preble, Putnam, Richland, Ross, Sandusky, Scioto, Shelby, Seneca, Trumbull, Union, Van Wert, Washington, Warren, Williams, Wyandot and Wayne, shall severally be entitled to one representative in each session of the decennial period.

The county of Columbiana shall be entitled to one representative in each session and one additional representative in the first, second and third sessions of the decennial period.

The counties of Belmont, Clark, Mahoning and Summit shall severally be entitled to one representative in each session, and one additional representative each in the third and fourth sessions of the decennial period.

The counties of Butler, Muskingum, Tuscarawas and Wood shall severally be entitled to one representative in each session, and one additional representative each in the fifth session of the decennial period.

The county of Stark shall be entitled to two representatives in each session and one additional representative in the fifth session of the decennial period.

The counties of Lucas and Montgomery shall severally be entitled to two representatives in each session and one additional representative each in the first, second and third sessions of the decennial period.

The county of Franklin shall be entitled to three representatives in each session and one additional representative in the fifth session of the decennial period.

The county of Cuyahoga shall be entitled to eight representatives in each session and one additional representative in the third and fourth sessions of the decennial period.

The county of Hamilton shall be entitled to ten representatives in each session of the decennial period.

The counties of Carroll, Morrow, Geauga, Lake, Vinton and Pike, having less than one-half of a representative ratio of population, have respectively and severally been attached to the adjoining county having the least number of inhabitants, and until they acquire a sufficient population to entitle them to elect separately, shall form representative districts during the decennial period in the manner following, to-wit: The counties of Carroll and Harrison, one district; the counties of Morrow and Marion, one district; the counties of Geauga and Lake, one district; the counties of Vinton and Hocking, one district; the counties of Pike and Adams, one district. Each of said districts so formed, shall be entitled to one representative in each session of the decennial period.

By the Constitution the State is divided into thirty-three senatorial districts, as follows:

The county of Hamilton constitutes the first senatorial district; the counties of Butler and Warren, the second; the counties of Montgomery and Preble, the third; Clermont and Brown, the fourth; Greene, Clinton and Fayette, the fifth; Ross and Highland, the sixth; Adams, Pike, Scioto and Jackson, the seventh; Lawrence, Gallia, Meigs and Vinton, the eighth; Athens, Hocking and Fairfield, the ninth; Franklin and Pickaway, the tenth; Clark, Champaign and Madison, the eleventh; Miami, Darke and Shelby, the twelfth; Logan, Union, Marion and Hardin, the thirteenth; Washington and Morgan, the fourteenth; Muskingum and

APPORTIONMENT OF THE GENERAL ASSEMBLY

Perry, the fifteenth; Delaware and Licking, the sixteenth; Morrow, the seventeenth; Coshocton and Tuscarawas, the eighteenth; Guernsey and Monroe, the nineteenth; Belmont and Franklin, the twentieth; Carroll and Stark, the twenty-first; Jefferson and Adams, the twenty-second; Trumbull and Mahoning, the twenty-third; Lake and Geauga, the twenty-fourth; Cuyahoga, the twenty-fifth; and Summit, the twenty-sixth; Medina and Lorain, the twenty-seventh; Wayne and Holmes, the twenty-eighth; Ashland and Richmondtown, the twenty-ninth; Huron, Erie, Sandusky and Ottawa, the thirtieth; Coshocton, Crawford and Wyandot, the thirty-first; Mercer, Adams, Wert, Paulding, Defiance and Williams, the thirty-second; Wood, Lucas, Fulton, Henry and Putnam, the thirty-third.

The following senatorial districts, to-wit: The third, the eighth, the eleventh, the twelfth, the thirteenth, the twentieth, the twenty-third, the thirtieth and the thirty-first shall be entitled to one senator in each session of the decennial period.

The thirty-second district shall be entitled to one senator in the first session and one additional senator in the first, second, third and fourth sessions of the decennial period.

The tenth district shall be entitled to one senator in the first session and one additional senator in the third and fourth sessions of the decennial period.

The thirty-third district shall be entitled to two senators in the first session and one additional senator in the third and fourth sessions of the decennial period.

The twenty-fifth district shall be entitled to two senators in the first session and one additional senator in the first, second, third and fourth sessions of the decennial period.

The first district shall be entitled to three senators in the first session and one additional senator in the third and fourth sessions of the decennial period.

The following districts until they acquire a sufficient number of senators to entitle them to elect separately, shall form districts in the fifth session, to-wit: The second and fourth senatorial districts shall form the fifth district, and the district so constituted shall be entitled to two senators in the first session and one additional senator in the fifth session of the decennial period.

The fifth and sixth senatorial districts shall form the sixth district, and the district so constituted shall be entitled to one senator in the first session and one additional senator in the fifth session of the decennial period.

REPORT OF SECRETARY OF STATE.

IN THE SUPREME COURT OF OHIO.

THE STATE OF OHIO, EX. REL. JOHN GALLAGHER,

PLAINTIFF,

VS.

JAMES E. CAMPBELL, GOVERNOR ; DANIEL J. RYAN,
SECRETARY OF STATE, AND EBENEZER W. POE,
AUDITOR OF STATE OF THE STATE OF OHIO,

DEFENDANTS.

Petition for Mandamus and Injunction.

Your relator now comes and shows the Court that he is an elector of and tax-payer resident at the county of Hocking, Ohio.

That James E. Campbell is the duly elected, qualified and acting Governor of the State of Ohio ; that Daniel J. Ryan is the duly elected, qualified and acting Secretary of State of said State ; and that Ebenezer W. Poe is the duly elected, qualified and acting Auditor of State of said State ; that by virtue of the Constitution of said State, it became and is the duty of said named officers, or of any two of them, at least six months prior to the November election, A. D., 1891, to ascertain and determine the ratio of representation according to the decennial census, the number of Representatives and Senators each county or district shall be entitled to elect, and for what years within the next ensuing ten years, and by the provisions of the same instrument, it is made the duty of the said Governor to publish said action as shall be directed by law.

The General Assembly of said State having directed no other mode by which the whole population of the State may be ascertained, it became and is the duty of said officers, or of any two of them, to take the whole population of said State as ascertained by the last federal census, divide such number by thirty-five, the result or quotient whereof constituting a senatorial ratio, or the ratio for senatorial representation in said State.

That by said federal census, the whole population of said State is 3,672,316, which gives senatorial ratio at 104,924, and the three-fourths ratio at 78,693.

That the population of the senatorial districts of Ohio by said census is as follows :

That by the provisions of said Constitution, it became and is the duty of said officers, or of any two of them, to apportion to each senatorial district having a population equal to three-fourths of such senatorial ratio, senatorial representation as follows : Each senatorial district having such full senatorial ratio or three-fourths of such ratio, one senator at each session of the legislature for the ensuing ten years; each district having two such ratios, two; and three times such ratio, three and so on; that to each of said districts that contain a population a fraction above said ratio so large that being multiplied by five, would result in a sum equal to one or more ratios, it became and is the duty of such officers, or of any two of them, to apportion to such district, senatorial representation as follows :

If one ratio, a senator to be allotted to the fifth session of the decennial period; if two, a senator to be allotted to the fourth and third sessions respectively; if three, to the third, second and first sessions; if four, to the fourth, third, second and first sessions respectively; it likewise became and is the duty of said officers, or of any two of them, at the time aforesaid, to annex each senatorial district in said State, having less than three-fourths of said ratio to the district adjoining having the least number of inhabitants, and to apportion to said two districts thus temporarily annexed, senatorial representation for the ten years next ensuing in the same manner and by the same rule made applicable to separate districts.

That the first, third, seventh, eighth, ninth, tenth, eleventh, twelfth, thirteenth, fifteenth, twenty-first, twenty-fifth, twenty-third, thirtieth, thirty-first, thirty-second and thirty-third districts are each entitled to separate senatorial representation and to have apportioned to them one or more senators, to be elected for each session of the General Assembly for the ten years next ensuing, each of said districts having a population of more than three fourths of a senatorial ratio by the last federal census aforesaid, and not being districts having the least number of inhabitants adjoining districts having less than three-fourths of a senatorial ratio.

It became and is the duty therefore of said officers, or of any two of them, at the time aforesaid, to apportion to each of said districts, senatorial representation upon the population contained in each in the manner and by the rule aforesaid; that neither the second, fourth, fifth, sixth, fourteenth, sixteenth, seventeenth, eighteenth, nineteenth, twentieth, twenty-fourth, twenty-seventh, twenty-eighth nor the twenty-ninth senatorial districts has a population by said census equal to three-fourths of said senatorial ratio. Each of said districts is therefore required to be annexed to the district adjoining it having the least number of inhabitants, as follows, that is to say: the second to the fourth district; the fifth to the sixth; the fourteenth to the nineteenth; the sixteenth to the seventeenth; the eighteenth to the twenty-eighth; the twentieth to the twenty-second; the twenty-fourth to the twenty-sixth; the twenty-seventh to the twenty-ninth.

The fourth district being the district adjoining the second having the least number of inhabitants by said census; the sixth district being the district adjoining the fifth having the least number of inhabitants by said census; the nineteenth district being the district adjoining the fourteenth having the least number of inhabitants by said census; the seventeenth district being the district adjoining the sixteenth having the least number of inhabitants by said census; the twenty-eighth district being the district adjoining the eighteenth having the least number of inhabitants by said census; the twenty-second district being the district adjoining the twentieth having the least number of inhabitants by said census; the twenty-sixth district being the district adjoining the twenty-fourth dis-district having the least number of inhabitants by said census; the twenty-ninth district being the district adjoining the twenty-seventh district having the least number of inhabitants by said census; it became and is the duty therefore of said officers, or of any two of them, in and about making an apportionment for senatorial representation aforesaid, to annex said several districts in the manner and form above indicated and to apportion to said several districts thus temporarily united, senatorial representation in the manner and in accordance with the rule given herein as applicable to separate districts.

That said officers have failed and neglected to perform the above indicated duty imposed upon them by said constitution and the laws, and unless compelled to so do by an order of mandamus from this court, will continue to neglect to perform said duties.

On the contrary, assuming and pretending to perform said duties in that behalf, the said defendants, Daniel J. Ryan, Ebenezer W. Poe, said defendant, James E. Campbell dissenting therefrom, proceeded to make a pretended apportionment of said State in accordance with the constitutional provision in respect thereto, a copy of which proceeding is hereto attached marked exhibit "A," and reference thereto is made herein and made a part of this petition.

That by the action of said officers aforesaid, they have assumed to create a district of which the ninth district is to constitute a part in the words following: "The ninth and fourteenth districts, composed of Athens, Hocking, Fairfield, Washington, Morgan, and a part of the counties of Noble and Monroe, shall form one district, and the district so constituted shall be entitled to one senator in each session and one additional senator in the third and fourth sessions of the decennial period."

That by the action of said officers aforesaid they have assumed to create a district composed of the eighteenth district and a part of the nineteenth district in the words following: "The eighteenth district composed of the counties of Tuscarawas and Coshocton, and the nineteenth district composed of the county of Guernsey and parts of the counties of Monroe and Noble, having been annexed at the last preceding apportionment and not having acquired sufficient population to entitle them to elect separately, shall be entitled to one senator in each session and one additional senator in the fifth session of the decennial period."

Your relator says that said officers have no right or power to create or constitute a district; that the same are created by the constitution of the State and may never be changed; that incorporating a part of the counties of Noble and Monroe in the districts thus assumed to be formed and constituted without specifying what part or parts thereof, their action in that behalf is void; that in assuming to incorporate in or annex to any other district or part of districts to the ninth district of said State, they are in violation of their duty as such officers, and their action in that behalf a nullity.

Your relator further says that while the said defendants have assumed to retain the eighteenth and nineteenth districts, as the same were annexed at the last preceding apportionment, have, in fact, only retained a part of the nineteenth district in the said joint district as above described by them, and that the eighteenth and nineteenth districts as described in the proceedings of said defendants describes other and different territory from that described in the action of the last preceding apportionment, and said nineteenth district, as described by the said defendants, only embraces a part of the nineteenth district, as the same was described and annexed to the eighteenth district at the last preceding apportionment, and that the proceeding of the said defendant in that behalf is therefore null and void.

That the ninth senatorial district of Ohio has a population of 91,791, or more than three-fourths of such senatorial ratio, and is therefore entitled to separate senatorial representation; that said ninth district is not the district adjoining the fourteenth district, having the least number of inhabitants, but the nineteenth district is such adjoining district having the least population, said nineteenth district having a population of 63,461, or less than three-fourths of a senatorial ratio.

That by annexing the fourteenth district to the said nineteenth, which was the plain constitutional duty of said officers to do, the fourteenth district would thereby be annexed to the district adjoining having the least population, and no district entitled thereto would be prevented from having separate senatorial representation.

That said officers assuming to act in the performance of their duties in this behalf, neglected to apportion to the fifteenth district separate representation, although said fifteenth district has a population of 82,361, or more than three-fourths of a senatorial ratio, and is therefore entitled to separate senatorial representation; but assuming that because the said fifteenth district and the sixteenth district had before and at the last decennial period been annexed for the purpose of apportionment, that they should so remain, and pretended to apportion representation to them in the following words: "The fifteenth district, composed of the counties of Muskingum and Perry, and the sixteenth district, composed of the counties of Delaware and Licking, having been annexed at the last preceding apportionment, and not having acquired sufficient population to entitle them to elect separately, shall be entitled to one senator in each session and one additional senator in the third and fourth sessions of the decennial period."

REPORT OF SECRETARY OF STATE.

defendant, James E. Campbell, has been by said other-ordered to cause said proceedings to be published as and for ment required by the Constitution of the State to be made-ers, and unless restrained by the order of this court, said
l publish said proceedings as and for such apportionment.
ator further says that the said defendants have failed, negd, and still neglect and refuse to ascertain and determine the entation according to the decennial census for each senatorial e state, and the number of senators each senatorial district led to elect, and for what years within the next ensuing ten ired by the provisions of the constitution, and have refused se to discharge their duties as required by the constitution in ator further avers that there is no proper or adequate remedy ress the injuries complained of herein, and that your relator electors of his county and district, as well as other districts of the state, will be deprived of proper and legal senatorial n, and will suffer great and irreparable injury in the premises, Honorable Court will grant a writ of mandamus herein, e defendants to discharge their duties in the premises in ith the provisions of the constitution.

nises considered, your relator prays that a writ of mandamus said defendants commanding them to proceed to apportion resentation for the several districts of the state in accordance stitutional requirements, and that senatorial representation rtioned to the ninth and fifteenth districts, to which said ave assigned no representation under their proceeding afore-h each of said districts has more than three-fourths of the tio and is entitled to separate senatorial representation, and said writ they may be commanded to annex the nineteenth e fourteenth district where it properly belongs, as the nine-t is the adjoining district to the fourteenth district, having ulation according to the last federal census, and that said nt throughout be made in accordance with the express letter the constitution, and that in the meantime the defendant, mpbell, be restrained by the order of this court from publish-proceeding of said officers, as he has been ordered to do by the ants herein.

THE STATE OF OHIO, FRANKLIN COUNTY, ss:

John Gallagher, being by me first duly sworn on his oath, says:

That he is the plaintiff in the above action, and that the facts stated and allegations therein contained are true.

JOHN GALLAGHER.

Sworn to by the said John Gallagher and by him subscribed in my presence this 29th day of April, A. D. 1891.

ROBERT L. GILLIAM,
Notary Public in and for Franklin County, Ohio.

EXHIBIT "A."

Pursuant to the requirements of the constitution, on this 13th day of April, A. D. 1891, James E. Campbell, Governor, E. W. Poe, Auditor of State, and Daniel J. Ryan, Secretary of State, met at the office of the Governor for the purpose of ascertaining and determining the representation in the General Assembly of Ohio according to the decennial census, and the number of representatives and senators each county or district shall be entitled to elect, and for what years within the next ensuing ten years.

Mr. Poe moved that Governor Campbell act as Chairman of the Board, which was agreed to.

Mr. Ryan moved that the following be declared the apportionment of this Board for representatives and senators during the fifth decennial period:

The apportionment for the House of Representatives during the fifth decennial period, under the constitution, shall be as follows:

The counties of Ashland, Athens, Auglaize, Allen, Ashtabula, Brown, Champaign, Clermont, Clinton, Coshocton, Crawford, Defiance, Delaware, Darke, Erie, Fairfield, Fayette, Fulton, Gallia, Greene, Guernsey, Hardin, Henry, Holmes, Highland, Huron, Hancock, Jackson, Jefferson, Knox, Lawrence, Logan, Licking, Lorain, Madison, Medina, Meigs, Mercer, Monroe, Morgan, Miami, Noble, Ottawa, Paulding, Perry, Pickaway, Portage, Preble, Putnam, Richland, Ross, Sandusky, Scioto, Shelby, Seneca, Trumbull, Union, Van Wert, Washington, Warren, Williams, Wyandot and Wayne shall severally be entitled to one representative in each session of the decennial period.

The county of Columbiana shall be entitled to one representative in each session, and one additional representative in the first, second and third sessions of the decennial period.

The counties of Belmont, Clark, Mahoning and Summit shall severally be entitled to one representative in each session, and one additional representative each in the third and fourth sessions of the decennial period.

The counties of Butler, Muskingum, Tuscarawas and Wood shall severally be entitled to one representative in each session, and one additional representative each in the fifth session of the decennial period.

The county of Stark shall be entitled to two representatives in each session, and one additional representative in the fifth session of the decennial period.

The counties of Lucas and Montgomery shall severally be entitled to two representatives in each session, and one additional representative each in the first, second and third sessions of the decennial period.

The county of Franklin shall be entitled to three representatives in each session, and one additional representative in the fifth session of the decennial period.

The county of Cuyahoga shall be entitled to eight representatives in each session, and one additional representative in the third and fourth sessions of the decennial period.

The county of Hamilton shall be entitled to ten representatives in each session of the decennial period.

The counties of Carroll, Morrow, Geauga, Lake, Vinton and Pike, having less than one-half of a representative ratio of population, have respectively and severally been attached to the adjoining county having the least number of inhabitants, and until they acquire a sufficient population to entitle them to elect separately, shall form representative districts during the decennial period in the manner following, to wit: The counties of Carroll and Harrison one district; the counties of Morrow and Marion one district; the counties of Geauga and Lake one district; the counties of Vinton and Hocking one district; the counties of Pike and Adams one district.

Each of said districts, so formed, shall be entitled to one representative in each session of the decennial period.

The following senatorial districts, to wit: The third, the seventh, the eighth, the eleventh, the twelfth, the thirteenth, the twenty-first, the twenty-third, the thirtieth and the thirty-first shall severally be entitled to one senator in each session of the decennial period.

The thirty-second district shall be entitled to one senator in each session, and one additional senator in the first, second, third and fourth sessions of the decennial period.

The tenth district shall be entitled to one senator in each session, and one additional senator in the third and fourth sessions of the decennial period.

The thirty-third district shall be entitled to two senators in each session, and one additional senator in the third and fourth sessions of the decennial period.

The twenty-fifth district shall be entitled to two senators in each session, and one additional senator in the first, second, third and fourth sessions of the decennial period.

The first district shall be entitled to three senators in each session, and one additional senator in the third and fourth sessions of the decennial period.

The following districts, until they acquire sufficient population to entitle them to elect separately, shall form districts in the manner following, to-wit: The second and fourth senatorial districts shall form one district, and the district so constituted shall be entitled to one senator in each session and one additional senator in the fifth session of the decennial period.

The fifth and sixth senatorial districts shall form one district, and the district so constituted shall be entitled to one senator in each session and one additional senator in the fifth session of the decennial period.

The ninth and fourteenth senatorial districts, composed of the counties of Athens, Hocking, Fairfield, Washington, Morgan and part of the counties of Noble and Monroe, shall form one district, and the district so constituted shall be entitled to one senator in each session and one additional senator in the third and fourth sessions of the decennial period.

The fifteenth district, composed of the counties of Muskingum and Perry, and the sixteenth district, composed of the counties of Delaware and Licking, having been annexed at the last preceding apportionment, and not having acquired sufficient population to entitle them to elect separately, shall be entitled to one senator in each session and one additional senator in the third and fourth sessions of the decennial period.

The seventeenth district, composed of the counties of Knox and Morrow, and the twenty-eighth district, composed of the counties of Wayne and Holmes, having in like manner been annexed at a preceding apportionment, and not having acquired sufficient population to entitle them to elect separately, shall be entitled to one senator in each session of the decennial period.

The eighteenth district, composed of the counties of Tuscarawas and Coshocton, and the nineteenth district, composed of the county of Guernsey and part of the counties of Monroe and Noble, having been annexed at the last preceding apportionment, and not having acquired sufficient population to entitle them to elect separately, shall be entitled to one senator in each session and one additional senator in the fifth session of the decennial period.

The twentieth and and twenty-second senatorial districts shall form one district, and the district so constituted shall be entitled to one senator in each session and one additional senator in the first, second and third sessions of the decennial period.

The twenty-fourth district, composed of the counties of Ashtabula, Lake and Geauga, and the twenty-sixth district, composed of the counties of Portage and Summit, having been annexed at the last preceding apportionment, and not having acquired sufficient population to entitle them to elect separately, shall be entitled to one senator in each session and one additional senator in the third and fourth sessions of the decennial period.

The twenty-seventh district, composed of the counties of Lorain and Medina, and the twenty-ninth district, composed of the counties of Ashland and Richland, having in like manner been annexed at a preceding apportionment, and not having acquired sufficient population to entitle them to elect separately, shall be entitled to one senator in each session of the decennial period.

Mr. Poe seconded said motion.

The motion of Mr. Ryan having been offered, as above recited, an amendment thereto was offered by James E. Campbell, as follows :

That the ninth and fifteenth senatorial districts be added to the list of districts each and severally to be entitled to one senator in each session of the decennial period ; that the following joint senatorial districts provided for in said motion be abrogated, to-wit : The ninth and fourteenth, the fifteenth and sixteenth, the seventeenth and twenty-eight and the eighteenth and nineteenth, and that in lieu thereof the following joint senatorial districts be created, to-wit :

The fourteenth and nineteenth senatorial districts shall form one district, and such district so constituted shall be entitled to one senator in each session, and one additional senator in the fifth session of the decennial period.

The sixteenth and seventeenth senatorial districts shall form one district, and such district so constituted shall be entitled to one senator in each session of the decennial period.

The eighteenth and twenty-eighth districts shall form one district, and such district so constituted shall be entitled to one senator during each session, and one additional senator in the fifth session of the decennial period.

The said amendment is offered for the reason that the apportionment proposed by Mr. Ryan does not take into consideration the fact that the joint senatorial districts, as apportioned in 1881, are now segregated, and each senatorial district restored to its separate character by the constitution; and for the further reason that said apportionment does not follow either numerical or geographical order in creating joint senatorial districts, and destroys unnecessarily the autonomy of the ninth and fifteenth senatorial districts.

The question being on said amendment, the vote was as follows: Aye, Mr. Campbell; nays, Messrs. Poe and Ryan.

The question recurring on the original motion, the vote was as follows: Ayes, Messrs. Poe and Ryan; nay, Mr. Campbell.

Thereupon the Chair declared the vote to be in favor of the adoption of the first mentioned proposition of apportionment, and declared that the same is the action of this Board in fixing the apportionment for the ensuing decennial period.

On motion of Mr. Poe, the Board adjourned sine die.

JAMES E. CAMPBELL,

Governor.

EBENEZER W. POE,

Auditor of State.

DANIEL J. RYAN,

Secretary of State.

ANSWER.

The defendants, for answer, say:

They admit that the population of the original senatorial districts of Ohio, as created by the constitution, is correctly stated in the petition, but that the population of the existing districts heretofore formed by annexation under section 8, of article 11, of the constitution, is as follows:

The joint district composed of the fifteenth and sixteenth districts, 152,829; the joint district composed of the eighteenth and nineteenth districts, 136,782; the joint district composed of the seventeenth and twenty-eighth districts, 105,864; the joint district composed of the twenty-fourth and twenty-six districts, 157,336; the joint district composed of the twenty-seventh and twenty-ninth districts, 122,332.

And they deny that the ninth and fifteenth senatorial districts are each entitled to separate senatorial representation, or that it became, or was, the duty of the defendants, or any two of them, to apportion to said districts, or either of them, separate senatorial representation; and they aver that each of said districts is a district having the least number of inhabitants adjoining a district having less than three-fourths of a senatorial ratio.

They deny that the nineteenth district is the district adjoining the fourteenth district having the least number of inhabitants by the last federal census. They deny that the fourteenth district should be annexed to said nineteenth district, and they deny that said nineteenth district now has any separate existence. On the contrary thereof, they aver that the said eighteenth and nineteenth districts were annexed by the apportionment of 1881, under the provisions of section 8, of article 11, of the constitution, and neither of said districts now have sufficient population to entitle them to elect separately, and they now constitute a joint senatorial district having a greater number of inhabitants than said ninth district.

They deny that the sixteenth district is the district adjoining the seventeenth district, having the least number of inhabitants by the last federal census. They deny that said sixteenth district should be annexed to said seventeenth district, and they deny that said sixteenth district has now any separate existence. On the contrary thereof, they aver that the said fifteenth district and sixteenth district were annexed by the apportionment of 1881 under the provisions of section 8, of article 11, of the constitution, and neither of said districts now have sufficient population to entitle them to elect separately, and they now constitute a joint senatorial district.

They deny that the eighteenth district is the district adjoining the twenty-eighth district, having the least number of inhabitants by the last federal census. They deny that said eighteenth district should be annexed to said twenty-eighth district, and they deny that said twenty-eighth district now has any separate existence. On the contrary thereof, they aver that the said seventeenth and twenty-eighth districts were annexed by the apportionment of 1861, under the provisions of section 8, of article 11, of the constitution, and were continued, as so annexed, by the apportionments of 1871 and 1881, and that neither of said districts have now sufficient population to entitle them to elect separately, and they now constitute a joint senatorial district.

They deny that they have assumed to create a district composed of the eighteenth district and a part of the nineteenth district. On the contrary thereof, they aver that in the apportionment made by them, they have continued the joint district created by the apportionment of 1881, composed of the said eighteenth district and the said nineteenth district, and they further say that by the second section of the act of the General Assembly of the State of Ohio, entitled "An act to erect the county of Noble," passed on the 11th day of March, 1851, the day after the adoption of the constitution by the convention, there was taken from the county of Washington, which the constitution placed in the fourteenth senatorial district, a strip of land which was added to and incorporated with the county of Monroe, and that the inhabitants of this strip of land have always since voted for State Senator in the fourteenth district; that when the defendants, in making the present apportionment, used, in describing the fourteenth and nineteenth districts, the language "composed of part of the counties of Noble and Monroe," they had, so far as the county of Monroe is concerned, reference to the division of that county made by the act of the General Assembly above referred to, and that they neither made, nor attempted to make any division of said county other than that made by said act of the General Assembly; that it was intended by the apportionment of 1881 to join the eighteenth and nineteenth districts by embracing therein only the territory belonging to said districts at the adoption of the constitution; and that, in fact, since the apportionment of 1881, said original districts, eighteen and nineteen, have been treated as a joint senatorial district, and the right of senatorial representation therein has been exclusively limited to the inhabitants of the territory of these districts as originally constituted by the constitution.

They deny that they have failed, neglected, or refused to ascertain or determine the ratio of representation according to the decennial census of each senatorial district of the state, and the number of senators each senatorial district should be entitled to elect, and for what years within the next ensuing ten years, as required by the provisions of the constitution, or that they have refused to discharge any of their duties, as required by the constitution, in the premises. On the contrary thereof, they aver that they have fully discharged their constitutional duty in the premises, as appears from the minutes of their proceedings, and the apportionment made by them, a copy of which is attached to the petition and marked Exhibit "A."

Wherefore, the defendants pray that they be dismissed and be allowed their costs in this action.

THE STATE OF OHIO, }

Daniel J. Ryan, one of the above named defendants, being first duly sworn, says that the facts and allegations set forth in the above answer are true as he verily believes.

C. O. L. COOPER, Notary Public.

BRIEFS AND ARGUMENTS FOR THE RELATOR.

Virgil C. Lowry, FOR RELATOR.

May it please the Court: The constitution of the State guarantees to the people of each and every senatorial district in the State, having three-fourths of a senatorial ratio of population or more, the right to separate and distinct representation in the Senate of the State.

Judge Ranney in the case of Ohio ex rel. Evans vs. Dudley in 1st O. S. 437, said: All the inhabitants of the State have the constitutional right to be represented in the legislative and judicial departments of the State, and all the electors of the State the right of suffrage in their several districts, to elect the necessary officers to fill these departments.

This right is an absolute one except in one particular, and that is, that such district is the district having the fewest inhabitants adjoining one having less than three-fourths of a senatorial ratio. In this event, although a district may have three-fourths of a senatorial ratio, or more, it loses its right to separate senatorial representation through the provisions of section 8, of article XI, of the State Constitution.

By the annexation of the 14th district to the 9th district, the relator insists that the constitutional right of the people of the 9th senatorial district to have separate senatorial representation has been violated. Because the 9th district has more than three-fourths of a senatorial ratio of population, and is not the district adjoining the 14th district having the least number of inhabitants, there being two other districts, to-wit: The 15th district and the 19th district, adjoining said 14th district, each having a less number of inhabitants than the 9th district.

But defendants contend that the 16th district having been annexed to the 15th district at the last preceding apportionment, and that the 19th district having at that time likewise been annexed to the 18th district, and that the districts so annexed in neither case having acquired a population sufficient to entitle them to elect separately, remain as they were annexed at the last preceding decennial apportionment, and hence that the 9th district is the only district undisposed of adjoining the 14th district having the least number of inhabitants. To sustain this view of the defendants and their action in conformity thereto, in respect to the apportionment of the senatorial districts, the court must find that the provisions of section 4, of article XI, of the State Constitution has been made applicable to senatorial districts.

The question then is, did the framers of the constitution intend to apply the provisions of section four to senatorial districts? If they had such an intention it must have been expressed through the medium of section 8, of article XI, of the State Constitution; because no other section of the constitution relating to senatorial districts can be construed to have the slightest reference to the provisions of section four, except as a counterpart thereof, as found in section nine, as hereinafter explained. Therefore the question narrows down to a construction of section eight. Section eight provides for two things. First. The apportioning of fractions of senatorial districts. Second. The annexing of senatorial districts that have less than three-fourths of a senatorial ratio at the time of apportionment. In doing these two things the same rules are to be applied as are applied in doing the same two things in respect to representative districts.

Did the framers of the constitution then by the use of the terms "apportioning the fractions of senatorial districts" intend to refer to the rule in section four and incorporate it in section eight, or did they intend to refer to the rule in section three and incorporate it in section eight?

Section three provides for the representation of the fractions of representative districts.

Now, if the above quoted terms of section eight do not refer to and incorporate the rules in section three into section eight, then we have no authority for fractional representation in senatorial districts, and we have been violating the constitution in this respect since 1861. As an illustration of this point, the eighth, tenth and thirteenth districts were allotted two senators each in the 69th General Assembly on the supposition that the provisions of section three were incorporated in section eight by the terms above quoted, whereas they are entitled to but one senator each, if section eight does not refer to section three. Without stopping to show that the terms apportioning senatorial districts are not descriptive of the object sought in section four, it is sufficient to say that all the apportioning officers heretofore have construed the above quoted terms of section eight to refer to section three.

The second and remaining object sought by the provisions of section eight is the annexation of senatorial districts that fall below three-fourths of a senatorial ratio at any decennial apportionment.

The question is: Did the framers of the constitution by the use of the terms "In annexing districts which may hereafter have less than three-fourths of a senatorial ratio," as used in section eight, intend to refer to and adopt the rule in section four or section five of article XI, and make it applicable to senatorial districts?

Certainly the terms annexing districts, etc., are in nowise descriptive of the provisions of section four.

Section four provides for the separation of a county under certain condition from a representative district formed by two or more counties. The process is separation, division into parts; the object and result is the creation of new representative districts. It is the making of two or more out of one.

The term annexing, as used in section eight, has a diametrically opposite object in view from those above stated. It means a joining of parts instead of a division into parts. As applied to representative districts or senatorial districts, it means a decrease in the number of districts instead of an increase, as contemplated by section four. It means the annihilation of old districts for the time being, instead of the creation of new ones, as provided for in section four. It means the making of one out of two instead of two out of one, as in section four. The distinctive object of section four is separation; the idea sought to be expressed by the words annexing, as used in section eight, is combination. The objects sought by section four and section eight, respectively, are as opposite as the operation of analysis and synthesis.

To what rule then in respect to representative districts did the framers of the constitution intend to refer when they used in section eight the above quoted terms in respect annexing senatorial districts that fall below three-fourths of a senatorial ratio?

Must not every one answer, it is the rule laid down in section five?

Section five has but two objects in view: First. It provides a rule for attaching a county to an adjoining one when it has less than the population required to entitle it to a representative. Second. It applies the same rules of representation to this district as to single counties. Are not the terms annexing districts which may hereafter have less than three-fourths of a senatorial ratio used in section eight completely descriptive of the operations of section five? Are not the rules of section five as plainly referred to by the language used in section eight as though instead of that language the number of the section had been used? If they are not, and if by means of them the framers of the constitution did not intend to incorporate into section eight the rules of section five, where do the officers charged with the duty of apportioning the State for legislative purposes get their authority for annexing a district having less than three-fourths of a senatorial ratio to the district adjoining it having the least number of inhabitants? If the rules of section five are not referred to in section eight, and incorporated therein, then said officers need not attach a district falling below the requisite number, to the adjoining district having the least number of inhabitants, and full opportunity is given for a political apportionment of the senatorial districts. A Democratic district can be smothered by a Republican district, or a Republican district by a Democratic district, at the will of said officers, the very evil the constitutional convention sought to prevent in creating by the constitution a system of self acting apportionment.

That the framers of the constitution did not intend to incorporate the rule in section four into section eight and apply it to senatorial districts as districts, is shown by the fact that the provisions of section four are made applicable to senatorial districts through section nine, the one being the counterpart of the other, each having in view the same object, to-wit: The separate representation of counties, the one in the senate, the other in the house, when certain conditions as to population had been complied with, theretofore only entitled to a joint representation respectively in the senate and house by reason of having been united with other counties by the constitution in a representative or senatorial district.

One proof of this fact is found from a comparison of section four with section nine, as it came from the hands of the committee on apportionment where it was designated as section ten. The section read as follows: Section 10. Whenever any county shall have a sufficient population to entitle it to a separate senatorial representation, and also to leave in the district from which it is taken, a population sufficient to be entitled to a senator, such county shall become a separate senatorial district at any regular decennial apportionment.

A glance at this section is sufficient to convince the most skeptical that it was taken almost bodily from section four, that most of the expression and terms therein are taken from section four, that without any strained construction or unnatural transposition of sentences or terms, or undue expansion of phrases in the one, or contraction of sentences in the other, these two sections can be made identical throughout in structure and language to say nothing of the identity of objects sought.

The part of section eight as it now stands relating to annexing districts that fall below three-fourths of a senatorial ratio, in the report of the committee on apportionment, read senatorial ratio instead of three-fourths of senatorial ratio as now. In conforming section nine, then called section ten, to this change from a full senatorial ratio to three-fourths of a senatorial ratio, the phraseology of section nine and the general plan of construction thereof was so changed as that it does not now resemble section four as much as in the report of the committee. In this connection it is well to bear in mind that the first report from the committee on apportionment to the convention, did not contain the provisions of section nine, but this section appeared in the second report as section ten, having been placed there after the first report had been recommitted to the committee.

That sections four and nine have the same objects in view is shown from an examination of the evils which they were created to remedy, and the objections to the system of apportionment sought to be adopted by the constitutional convention, that they were expected to remove.

The members of the constitutional convention from the smaller counties, and many from the larger ones, on principle, maintained that each county, however few its inhabitants, should have a representative, while some of the larger counties contended for single senatorial representation.

A large and respectable portion of the constitutional convention went further than this, and contended that every constituency of the legal amount was entitled to its own separate representation, and insisted on the division of counties and districts every ten years to accomplish this end. To remove these objections to the plan of apportionment proposed, to the extent of giving a county forming with another county or counties, a representative or senatorial district separate representation, when it and the remaining part of the district had acquired a sufficient population, sections four and nine were engrafted on the constitution.

The chief objection to the plan of apportionment proposed and finally adopted, was that it not only did not provide for single district representation, but that it even required the formation of seven representative districts, each composed of two or more counties, and deprived fifteen counties of separate representation. Hence, the evil sought to be relieved against was a then present one. This fact is borne out by an examination of the last clause of section nineteen of the schedule to the constitution. It is true, possibly, that by the use of the expression in section four "during one decennial period" in letter if not in spirit and intent section four is made to govern section five in respect to the separation of the counties united into a representative district by the provisions of section five. But when we reflect that by the omission of the expression "during one decennial period" from section four, every one of the seven representative districts above referred to, whose component counties had not acquired a sufficient population to entitle them to a separate representation at the next decennial period after the adoption of the constitution, to-wit, 1861, would forever thereafter have remained as formed by the constitution, we can very readily believe that it was this evil that the expression, "during one decennial period" was intended to prevent rather than to include section five within its operation. This view is supported by the fact that the counties composing these seven representative districts were new or unsettled, and it was claimed very naturally that they would grow in population as compared with the general growth of the State in population and hence the provision of section four. On the other hand, it was claimed that the older settled counties would fall off in population as compared with the growth of the State in population, and hence the provisions of section five.

We are, therefore, driven to the conclusion that the object that the framers of the constitution had in view in incorporating section four into the constitution was not the holding of counties together, joined by the provisions of section five, but the separation of counties joined by the constitution, into separate representative districts and that any operation the provisions of section four may have upon section five is an incidental or accidental one so far as the intention of the framers of the constitution was concerned.

Hence, we see that there was no reason for applying the provisions of section four to senatorial districts as districts, as the evil of joint senatorial districts did not exist at the time of the adoption of the constitution, but there was reason for applying its provisions to the counties composing senatorial districts as was done in section nine, as it was supposed that some of the counties through the growth of their cities and otherwise, might acquire a large population and entitle them to separate senatorial representation.

But the proceedings of the constitutional convention sustain the fact that the rules of section five are referred to in section eight, and not the rules of section four. For Mr. Stanton, in speaking in favor of a motion to strike Ottawa county from one district and attach it to another, in order to equalize the population, said that the rules of section five had been made applicable to senatorial districts through the provisions of section eight, then called section nine in the second report of the committee. Mr. Dorsey, in speaking to the same motion, but in opposition thereto, assumes that Mr. Stanton's statements above referred to are correct, and no member of the convention dissented from this view, and so it seems the constitution was adopted by the convention with this view.

It appears then from the nature and reason of the case, and from the sense in which the framers of the constitution viewed the section of the construction under consideration, which views when a doubt arises as to the constitution of a constitutional provision become a valuable source of information, that the provisions of section four were not made applicable to senatorial districts as districts. But notwithstanding this fact, the inquiry may arise whether when a district has once been annexed to another under the provisions of section eight, a presumption does not arise in favor of continuance of the districts so joined together so long as either one of the districts, so joined, has less than three-fourths of a senatorial ratio. The answer is no. For in the absence of the application of some such provisions as that contained in section four to senatorial districts other provisions of the constitution would defeat this presumption if it should arise. For nothing is more plain than that every senatorial district having three-fourths of a senatorial ratio has a positive constitutional right to separate senatorial representation, subject to another provision of section eight, which requires a district having less than three-fourths of a senatorial ratio to be joined to the senatorial district adjoining having:

the fewest inhabitants. Suppose then that a senatorial district by reason of being the district having the fewest inhabitants adjoining a district having less than three-fourths of a senatorial ratio is united with such district in a joint district at the preceding decennial apportionment. But suppose that this senatorial district, so united as above at the preceding decennial apportionment, is not now the district having the fewest inhabitants, adjoining the one with which it was united ten years ago, but that another adjoining district has fewer inhabitants now than it has, then the district so united ten years ago with the district having less than three-fourths of a senatorial ratio, has an absolute constitutional right to demand a separate representation and to have the district with which it has heretofore been united, attached to the district adjoining having the fewest inhabitants.

The provisions of section eleven that the officers therein mentioned, at the end of each decennial period, shall ascertain and determine the number of representatives and senators each county or district is entitled to elect, makes it plain by the use of the expression "each district," that said officers must go through the state district by district to determine the representation of each district, and as soon as a district is found which falls below three-fourths of a senatorial ratio, it is attached by the constitution, not by said officers, to the adjoining district having the fewest inhabitants, and the joint representation of the districts so joined determined. By an examination of that portion of article XI, relating to senatorial districts, especially section ten thereof, where the expression "the senatorial districts" is used, we conclude that when the constitution speaks of a senatorial district, it means a constitutional district. Nowhere does the constitution recognize or designate districts, joined under the provisions of section eight, as a district, hence, the use of the expression "each district" in respect to senatorial districts, means the constitutional district.

An examination of the reports of each decennial apportionment previous to the present one, discloses the fact that no set of officers charged with the duty of making these apportionments, has ever gone so far as the present one and attempted to constitute and designate the districts annexed under the provisions of section eight as a district.

Each set of officers charged with the duty of apportioning the state for legislative purposes prior to 1881 disregarded previous apportionments of the state and apportioned the state anew as though it was the first apportionment after the adoption of the constitution.

In 1861, the only district in the state which had less than three-fourths of a senatorial ratio, was the seventeenth district, which was attached to the twenty-eighth district, the latter being the district adjoining having the least number of inhabitants. In 1871, the seventeenth district still having less than three-fourths of a senatorial ratio, was again joined to the twenty-eighth district, the latter still being the district adjoining having the fewest inhabitants. In that apportionment no regard was paid to the previous apportionment. Note the language of the officers who made that apportionment: "The seventeenth district, composed of the counties of Knox and Morrow, having less than three-fourths of a senatorial ratio of population, is, as required by the constitution, attached to the adjoining district having the least number of inhabitants, which is the twenty-eighth district, composed of the counties of Wayne and Holmes." (See Ohio Laws, Vol. 68, p. 238.)

In 1881, the rule theretofore adopted in joining senatorial districts, which fell below three-fourths of a ratio, was set aside in the apportionment of that year and a new rule adopted, as is shown by the language of the report, as follows:

"The seventeenth district, composed of the counties of Knox and Morrow, and the twenty-eighth district, composed of the counties of Wayne and Holmes, having been annexed at the last preceding apportionment, and not having acquired a population sufficient to entitle them to elect separately, shall be entitled to one senator in each session of the decennial period." (See Ohio Laws, Vol. 78, p. 449.)

From this it is apparant that the officers charged with the duty of apportioning the state for legislative purposes in 1871, construed the provisions of the constitution relating to the annexing of senatorial districts that fell below three-fourths of a senatorial ratio, as the relator contends they should be construed. It is important to bear in mind that at this apportionment in 1871, for the first time under the constitution, the officers charged with duty of apportioning the state at that time, were brought face to face with the question whether senatorial districts annexed at a previous apportionment segregate at the end of each decennial period, and as shown above, the officers held by their action that senatorial districts so joined as above, do segregate at the end of each decennial period.

But let us assume, for the purpose of this argument, that the provisions of section four furnish a rule when counties joined by the provisions of section five shall have separate representation and that the framers of the constitution intended that section four should furnish such a rule. Will not these two sections then be construed together? The answer is that they might be if a doubt arose as to the meaning of the one or the other, but not in respect to a reference to one of them by another section. For it is a familiar principle of law in respect to reference statutes that they only incorporate in the new statute the powers and provisions of the sections of the statute to which they refer.

An act adopting another by reference does not adopt it beyond the purpose of the new act.—Endlich on the Interpretation of Statutes, Section 101.

A reference statute embraces only the general, not the particular powers of the statute referred to; and a term referred to must be understood in its primary sense as expressly defined and not in an assimilated interpretation.—Endlich on the Interpretation of Statutes, Sec. 493.

But the constitution having declared that senatorial districts shall not be changed except in two instances, and having specified what these changes are in both instances, the separation of a district into two districts in the one instance, and the joining of districts in the other, section eight could in no sense be taken to refer to the rules in section four on the familiar principle of law that the expression of the one thing is the exclusion of the other.

It is well to keep in mind the fact that the references in section eight are to the rules applied in apportioning the fractions of senatorial districts, and in annexing districts that fall below three-fourths of a senatorial ratio, and not to the provisions or terms used in sections three and five. The rule or appointed course of procedure applied to counties in section five, is applied to senatorial districts in section eight.

The subject with all its modifications to which this appointed course of procedure is applied in section five is "a county previously entitled to a separate representation, having less than the number required by the new ratio for a representative."

The subject to which this same course of procedure is applied in section eight is "a district which may hereafter have less than three-fourths of a senatorial ratio." The subject then in each section is fully set forth and defined. The point sought to be made is that it is not the modifications or conditions of the subject in section five, that are referred to in section eight, and made a part thereof, but that it is the rule, applied to the subject in section five with all its modifications that is referred to alone. And the definition of the subject in section eight excludes the application of any of the modifications of the subject in section five.

But defendants, doubtless, will ask what reason could the framers of the constitution have had in mind when they provided that counties joined by the provisions of section five should not necessarily segregate at the end of each decennial period, while districts, joined by the provisions of section eight, should so segregate at the end of each decennial period.

The reason, it seems to me, ought to be plain to every one. A representative district thus formed is composed of but two counties, while a senatorial district so formed is composed of four, five or six counties.

Therefore, in all human probability, the cause of decrease in population that reduced the population of one county of a representative district formed under the provisions of section five below the fraction required to entitle it to separate representation and caused the other county of such representative district to be the county adjoining the first, having the least number of inhabitants, will preserve the relation as to population between these two counties so long as it continues to operate. And when it gives way to some cause of increase in population, this same cause of increase is likely to operate alike over so limited a territory as two counties.

But this proposition is not likely to hold good in respect to senatorial districts annexed by the provisions of section eight of said article XI.

That which is the rule in respect to representative districts in this regard, is likely to be the exception in respect to senatorial districts annexed by the provisions of section eight of said article XI. For the cause of increase or decrease in population that may affect the two counties of a joint representative district alike, is not likely to affect in like manner the larger territory of five or six counties of two districts joined by the provisions of section eight.

Therefore, while one member of a joint senatorial district, as defendants call it, may increase greatly in population, the other member may decrease in population.

Therefore we see the reason why senatorial districts falling below three-fourths of a senatorial ratio should be left free at the end of each decennial period to be attached to those adjoining them having the least number of inhabitants in order that two great objects of the constitution in respect to senatorial districts may be carried out, to-wit:

Equalization of population and the preservation of the right of separate representation to senatorial districts entitled to it.

There is little or no doubt but that the framers of the constitution intended that districts united by the provisions of section eight should remain together only for one decennial period.

The constitutional debates of 1851 show this fact.

That part of section eight of article XI relating to annexing districts, then called section nine, as it was reported to the convention from the committee on apportionment, read as follows: "And for annexing districts which may hereafter fall below the senatorial ratio."

When this section came to be considered by the convention in committee of the whole, Mr. Stillwell proposed an amendment to it as follows: Strike out the word "the" in the latter clause of the ninth section and insert these words "three-fourths of a full," so that it would read: "And for annexing districts that fall below three-fourths of a full senatorial ratio." This amendment was agreed to in the committee of the whole and reported back to the convention and its adoption recommended.

When it came up for adoption Mr. Stillwell again moved to amend the amendment by striking out the words "three-fourths" and insert the words two-thirds in its place. In speaking in favor of this amendment Mr. Stillwell said: "The object of this article ought, it seems to me, to be to fix the senatorial districts, so that if possible there shall be neither necessity nor temptation to tamper with them in the future. I believe that unless it shall prevail or something of the same character shall be adopted, the senatorial apportionment of the State will be afloat at every decennial period."

Now what does Mr. Stillwell say? He states what he believes ought to be the object of this article in respect to the change of senatorial districts and that this object can be accomplished by the adoption of his amendment or some similar one. He seemed to think that by the adoption of a small fractional ratio entitling districts to separate representation as long as they had that fractional ratio, that none or very few of them would have to be attached at any decennial period, whereas if a district must have a full senatorial ratio to entitle it to separate representation and must be attached when it fell below that ratio, that most of the districts of the State would be below that ratio and would be afloat for the purposes of annexation every ten years. He sought to remedy this evil by establishing a small fractional ratio which would prevent the necessity of annexing districts at all or to a limited extent, so that very few districts at most would be afloat every ten years.

Mr. Manon in speaking in favor of this same amendment said: "The district composed of the counties of Clark, Champaign and Madison for instance, now fall some three or four thousand below the ratio; and I would ask if there is any probability that within the next ten years, it will so increase its population as to come up to it? If not, for the next ten years, it will have to be attached to the neighboring district for the ten years to come.

It is true some of the members of the convention in discussing this amendment speak of a district which shall fall below the fractional ratio as being blotted out or annihilated.

But these terms are consistent with the theory of the relation as to annexing districts and the views of Mr. Stillwell and Mr. Manon as quoted above. For it is plain to be seen that these terms are used in the sense that such a district is blotted out as to its right to separate representation and is to remain blotted out so far as its identity in this respect is concerned so long and only so long as its population falls below the fractional ratio established.

Such a district is not blotted out by reason of its annexation but by reason of an inherent defect and the language last above quoted can not be taken to imply that it was the opinion of the members using it that the length of time a district falling below the fractional ratio is to remain annexed to an adjoining one is commensurate with the length of time it is blotted out or annihilated as to its right to separate representation by reason of falling below the fractional ratio.

Again, there is reason to believe that the framers of the constitution regarded the annexation of senatorial districts under the provisions of section eight as a mere temporary arrangement, just as the apportionment itself is a temporary arrangement.

For the committee on apportionment after having had under consideration the subject of apportionment for some time, made what is known as report "No. 1," to the convention. This report practically embodied the present plan of apportionment as contained in Article XI except as to the districts formed and the provisions of section nine.

This report after being discussed by the convention was recommitted to the committee on apportionment.

The second report differed very little from the first one. The more noticeable change was the incorporation of section nine, then called section ten, in this second report. But the first report of the committee must be taken to embody the wisdom of the committee on the subject of apportionment.

The first report contained the provisions of section eight in respect to annexing districts, differing only as to the size of the fractional ratio.

The first report also contained in section eleven, then called section twelve, the provision that "no change shall ever be made in the principles of representation as herein established, or in the districts for senatorial purposes," but did not contain as now the expression "except as above provided." We conclude then that the committee which formulated these two sections together and the convention which discussed them and failed to amend section eleven in this respect did not regard the annexation of districts under the provisions of section eight as a change of districts, but as a mere temporary expedient. But when section nine was incorporated into this second report of the committee, the convention amended section eleven of the report, called section twelve, by adding the term "except as above provided." So we have every reason to believe that the exception was intended to cover the provisions of section nine alone.

I throw this last view in for what it may be worth; for I am aware that there is a dictum in the case of Ohio ex rel Evans vs. Dudley, 1 O. S. 437. to the effect that the exception in section eleven refers to sections eight and nine, and I have myself so accepted it in a previous part of this argument.

But if this apportionment of the State for senatorial representation is such a one as the defendants should have made under the constitution, the court will not set it aside because they have given a wrong reason for their action in that respect.

The question then is, could the defendants in any other way than by retaining the districts, as annexed at the last preceding decennial apportionment, have apportioned the State for senatorial purposes in the way in which it has been done, and such apportionment have been in accordance with the constitution.

The answer to this question depends upon the powers conferred upon the defendants by the constitution in respect to legislative apportionments, and the object and purpose of that constitution in respect to such apportionments.

Section 11 of Article XI of the constitution vests the Governor, Auditor and Secretary of State, with all the powers they possess in respect to legislative apportionments.

The powers which this section confers upon the above named officers in respect to legislative apportionments, aside from the obligation imposed upon the governor to publish the result of the apportionment, are two.

First. They are to ascertain and determine the ratio of representation, according to the decennial census.

Second. They are to ascertain and determine the number of representatives and senators each county or district shall be entitled to elect, and for what years within the next ensuing ten years.

It seems evident then that the executive officers mentioned in section eleven are not vested with judicial discretion in respect to legislative apportionments, but that their duties in that respect are wholly ministerial.

Section eleven confers no power upon the officers mentioned therein to ascertain and determine what senatorial districts shall be annexed by them under the provisions of section eight.

If this position be correct, then, upon what theory consistent with the provisions of the constitution, could the defendants begin with the 17th district and run out the apportionment of the State to the 31st district; then begin again with the 1st district and run out the remaining apportionment of the State to the 17th district, as they would have to do in order to reach the results accomplished by the present alleged apportionment?

Such a course of procedure on the part of the defendants implies a discretion which, as we have seen, they are not vested with by the constitution.

For the framers of the constitution made the first apportionment of the State, and in doing so divided the State into thirty-three senatorial districts, as nearly equal in population as was consistent with the formation of these districts upon county lines, keeping in view the ratio of representation established and compactness of territory. They marked out their course through the State in these respects by numbering the districts in the order of their formation, and embodied a schedule of the districts in the constitution in their numerical order.

That the framers of the constitution divided the State into senatorial districts in the order of their formation is evident from a glance at a map of the senatorial districts.

Hamilton county formed the nucleus from which the formation of districts was systematically and compactly pushed out along the line of the older and more densely settled portions of the State. The system of the division and another proof of the order followed is seen in the grouping of the districts in their formation. There are nine groups of districts, each group formed as it were around a center, beginning with the first district and following the numerical order of the districts as follows: There are three districts in the first group; three in the second; three in the third; four in the fourth; six in the fifth; three in the sixth; four in the seventh; four in the eighth, and three in the ninth.

The framers of the constitution having followed a particular order in apportioning political power amongst the inhabitants of the State, in respect to senatorial representation, and having set that order out in the constitution, the relator insists that that order of procedure is authoritative. And that the defendants, not having been vested with judicial discretion, must follow that order.

An examination of the minutes of previous appointments will disclose the fact that the numerical order of the districts has been followed, and in the present alleged apportionment the numerical order has been followed outside of the districts annexed at the preceding apportionment.

But let us concede, for the purpose of this argument, that the defendants are vested with discretion to begin at any point in the State to make the apportionment. It certainly must be a reasonable discretion, and must be exercised in accordance with the purpose and intent of the constitution.

The history of the times previous to the adoption of the constitution, and the debates in the constitutional convention disclose the fact that three things are undoubtedly aimed at in providing that a senatorial district, which falls below three-fourths of a senatorial ratio, shall be annexed to the district adjoining having the least number of inhabitants.

First. That no political advantage might be had in the apportionment of the State for senatorial purposes.

Second. That the population of the districts might be kept as nearly equal as possible.

Third. That the least number of people in a district having the legal amount of population and the fewest number of districts entitled to separate representation should be deprived of their right to separate representation from their respective districts. If it could be shown, then, that any particular apportionment of the State for legislative purposes was based upon political reasons alone, it would not stand the test for a minute. For if there was one thing more than another that the framers of the constitution sought to do, and thought they had done, it was that they had placed the future apportionments of the State for legislative purposes beyond the influence of politics.

A majority of the constitutional convention refused to incorporate in the constitution what is known as the single district plan of representation. They did this not because the plan was not a just and fair and reasonable one, for no one in the convention seriously disputed that it was a just and correct plan of representation, but the majority of the convention refused to adopt this plan because they feared that all the evils of legislative apportionments, under the old constitution, which more than any other thing the constitutional convention had been called to remedy, would be transferred from the legislature under the old constitution to the local boards necessary to carry out the single district plan, under the new constitution. Hence it is not reasonable to suppose that the constitutional convention refused to adopt a plan of apportionment which its members admitted to be correct in principle, because of the evils attending its execution, and at the same time perpetuated these same evils through other provisions of the constitution.

Granting, then, as above, that the defendants are vested with discretionary power as to legislative apportionment, we see very plainly that they are positively forbidden by the very spirit and intent of the constitution to exercise that discretion for political purposes.

If that be true, then, we have the strongest possible reason why the defendants, unless for the purposes of equalizing the population of districts falling below three-fourths of a senatorial ratio, or for preserving the rights of districts to separate representation, should begin at the first district to apportion the State for legislative purposes where no opportunity for unfairness or undue political advantage can be had, and where, even under the supposition of discretionary powers, the nature and reason of the case and previous precedents, save for the two purposes above mentioned, would seem to indicate they should begin.

Again, I desire to say that the fact that the convention sought to embody in the constitution a system of self-acting apportionment that would do away with the necessity for vesting any set of men with discretionary powers, as to the change of districts and division of counties, as they showed it was their intention to do when they refused to adopt the single district plan, for fear of political apportionments, is the strongest possible argument that the defendants should begin at the first district. For, to hold otherwise, is to hold that those portions of the State having districts which fall below three-fourths of a senatorial ratio may, through a skillfully selected beginning, be apportioned for political purposes.

But the present alleged apportionment violates the second and third objects of section eight above enumerated, in this: It does not equalize the population of the districts annexed as nearly as the plan contended for by the relator.

Again, it deprives two districts entitled to separate senatorial representation of their rights in that respect, whereas the plan contended for by the relator preserves the rights of these two districts in this respect.

Under the plan proposed by the defendants, there are, adopting their phraseology for convenience, nine joint districts; under the plan contended for by the relator there would be but eight.

The relator is willing to concede that the defendants have apportioned the State in respect to the second and fourth, the fifth and sixth, the twentieth and twenty-second, the twenty-fourth and twenty-sixth, and the twenty-seventh and twenty-ninth districts, as the constitution requires, and as the plan contended for himself would require.

But in respect to the 9th and 14th, the 15th and 16th, the 17th and 28th, and the 18th and 19th districts, the relator insists that the defendants have violated the provisions of the constitution, even on the assumption that they have discretionary power as to the point of beginning to apportion the State.

Taking the alleged apportionment of defendants we have the following as to population and fractions above the ratio:

9th—14th districts,	population,	164,426;	fraction,	59,502.
15th—16th	"	152,829;	"	47,905.
17th—28th	"	105,864;	"	1,940.
18th—19th	"	136,782;	"	31,856.

In the plan proposed by the relator we would have the following results as to population and fractions:

14th—19th districts,	population,	136,098;	fraction,	31,174.
16th—17th	"	116,188;	"	12,264.
18th—28th	"	134,265;	"	29,341.

Comparing these two plans, then, we see that in the plan of the defendants the population ranges from 105,864 in the 17th—28th districts to 164,426 in the 9th—14th districts, or a difference of 58,562, a very great inequality. But in the plan proposed by the relator the population only ranges from 116,188 in the 16th—17th districts to 136,098 in the 14th—19th districts, or a difference of only 19,910, a very insignificant inequality as compared with the inequality of 58,562, resulting from the defendants' plan.

Again, an examination of the plan of this alleged apportionment shows that two districts entitled to separate representation, are deprived of that right, to-wit: The 9th and 15th districts, whereas their rights in that respect are not violated by the plan contended for by the relator.

Again, the defendants' plan leaves a fraction of 68,424 above that of the plan contended for by the relator. The defendants have deprived four districts in the State entitled to separate representation of that right, two of them wrongfully, as we claim; whereas the plan contended by the relator deprives but two districts in the State entitled to separate representation of that right, and that necessarily.

The premises considered then, I claim that the constitution requires the state to be apportioned anew, as to senatorial districts, every ten years, as though it was the first apportionment after the adoption of the constitution; that the districts annexed at any decennial apportionment segregate at the end of that decennial period; that the officers charged with the duty of legislative apportionments are not vested with discretionary powers as to the apportionments, their duties being confined to mere computations; that as a consequence of this, and the further fact that the constitutional convention apportioned the state in a particular way, and set out that way as a schedule in the constitution, the defendants must follow the rule thus laid down by the convention in the first apportionment of the state; that the defendants have not followed this rule in respect to the ninth, fourteenth, fifteenth, sixteenth, seventeenth, eighteenth, nineteenth and twenty-eighth districts; that upon the supposition that the defendants are vested with discretionary powers, as to where they shall begin to apportion the state, the plan they have adopted violates two plain provisions of the constitution, to-wit: equalization of population and preservation of the rights of districts entitled to separate representation in favor of an object, if any object was had in view, to-wit: a political one, prohibited by the very spirit of the constitution; that the people of the ninth district, as well as of other portions of the state, by reason of these facts, have been deprived of their rights in the premises; that John Gallagher, being a citizen and elector of the ninth district, Hocking county, Ohio, has a right to insist upon having the state apportioned in accordance with the provisions of the constitution, and to have separate senatorial representation apportioned to the ninth district of Ohio, so long as the balance of the state is apportioned in accordance with the provisions of the constitution.

John S. Friesner FOR RELATOR.

May it please the Court: The application in this case is for the issuing of a writ of mandamus commanding the defendants to discharge their official duties in and about ascertaining and determining the ratio of representation in this state, according to the decennial census, the number of representatives and senators each county or district shall be entitled to elect, and for what years within the next ensuing ten years, and for an injunction restraining the Governor of the state from publishing as such what a majority of said officers have assumed to do, and what is claimed by them to be a performance of their duty in that behalf.

The language of the constitution which we claim imposes this duty upon these officers, or any two of them, is as follows:

Section 11, article XI, of the Ohio Constitution—

"The Governor, Auditor and Secretary of State, or any two of them, shall, at least six months prior to the October election, in the year one thousand eight hundred and sixty-one, and at each decennial period thereafter, ascertain and determine the ratio of representation, according to the decennial census, the number of representatives and senators each county or district shall be entitled to elect, and for what years within the next ensuing ten years, and the Governor shall cause the same to be published in such manner as shall be directed by law."

How this shall be done, the rules to be applied in ascertaining and determining this matter, are given in the preceding sections of article XI of the constitution.

Now, as a writ of mandamus issues only commanding a board or person to perform some act which the law specially enjoins as a duty resulting from an office, trust, or station, it follows whether the writ should issue in this case against these officers depends upon what their duties are in respect to the matter complained of. And, inasmuch as it is claimed that they have discharged their duties in that behalf, a copy of their proceedings being attached to the petition, it must be determined whether the action of a majority of these officers is a compliance with the provisions of the constitution applicable.

I claim that the duty of apportioning the state for legislative and senatorial purposes is purely ministerial, giving no discretion to the officers charged with the duty of making such apportionment.

The result sought by the constitution was the establishment of a rule that should ever afterward be applied, without regard to what advantage or disadvantage might result to political parties.

The purpose was to establish a fixed rule to endure, so far as the election of members of the General Assembly is concerned, subject to no control or alteration by that body, or to any other party, for that matter, who might be more interested in securing political advantage than in the real purpose of such apportionment, the securing to the people of the State, and the different sections thereof, equality of representation in the General Assembly.

In the language of Justice Ranney: "The State had been subjected to a most humiliating experience while the power was left with the General Assembly, and the scenes of anarchy and confusion which had marked its existence there undoubtedly determined the people to deprive that body of it absolutely, so far as the election of their own members was concerned, for the future."

The right that is recognised and that is intended to be preserved by these provisions of the constitution is that all the inhabitants of the State be represented in the legislative department of their State government.

That all the electors of the State have opportunity to exercise their right of suffrage in their several districts to elect the necessary officers to fill departments, and to secure equality of representation throughout the State, and to all the people thereof, as nearly as that may be done.

To that end the scheme of decennial apportionments set forth in the constitution was devised by the framers of that instrument.

In thus establishing a fixed rule for such apportionment it was intended that the whole thing should be a mere matter of computation, and it was deemed important what particular officers should apply the rule.

The Governor, Auditor and Secretary of State are designated, but so far as any discretion is given them, or the right to exercise any because of their official capacity, the duty might as well be imposed upon any other person or officers. The application of the rule must be the same in any event, and if the rules are justly applied the result in the apportionment must be the same whoever applies.

The very thing the framers of the constitution undertook to provide against was the possibility of interested parties procuring such a shifting of representation or apportionments that shall serve as misrepresentation; and one of the interesting questions that is in this case is whether the scheme devised by the framers of the constitution is effective in accomplishing that purpose, or whether the apportionment of the State shall be now as it was before the adoption of our last constitution, a mere jugglery with districts for political advantage.

That while it may be carried out here the apportionment is devised in Washington.

That while the hand that signs the apportionment may be the hand of the Esau-officer here, the inspiration comes from the Jacob at Washington.

The provisions of the constitution applicable to this subject execute, and were intended to execute, themselves. That is, they require no legislation to make them operative.

The question is narrowed down then to a consideration of these provisions.

Have these officers performed their duties under these provisions? If they have that is an end of the matter. If they have not they should be commanded to do so.

To determine this matter, it seems to me only necessary to lay these provisions of the constitution along beside of what these officers have done in that behalf, to lay the line and level upon their work and to see if it will square up.

I need not urge the importance of this question nor the right of the relator here to move in the matter.

To deprive any portion of the State of its fair, just and constitutional representation is subversive of representative government, whether it is done under the apparent forms of law or in any other way.

It makes no difference in the result whether the elector is deprived of his fair representation by jugglery in the apportionment for representation, by deterring electors from depositing their ballots by fear or force, or by cheating in the count after they have been deposited.

The question is whether the apportionment submitted by a majority of these officers, copy whereof is hereto attached, is a fair, just and constitutional apportionment or not.

In considering this question the purpose, the intent, as well as the letter of the constitution, is to be considered, for I take it, it was as much the duty of these officers to carry out the spirit as the letter of their duties.

The constitutional convention of 1851 made the first apportionment of the State, as well as fixed the rule by which all subsequent apportionments should be made.

In the language of the Supreme Court: "The constitution apportions political power amongst the inhabitants of the State as nearly equally as possible, in proportion to numbers, without any regard whatever to property, or indeed to any other circumstance. Inhabitants alone are represented; a given number in one place exercise the same political power as a like number in any other locality," etc.

State ex rel. v. Evans & Dudley, 1 Ohio St. Repts., 437.

Keeping this purpose of the constitution in view, the reason for requiring districts having less than three-fourths of a ratio to be attached to adjoining districts having the least number of inhabitants becomes manifest, and the duty to do so becomes obligatory upon these officers.

The reason is manifest, because the representation is based upon population only, and the constitutional purpose is that such apportionment shall be made that the people of the different districts shall have as nearly equal legislative and senatorial representation as the nature of the case makes possible, so that as few of the people of any district shall be left unrepresented as possible.

From the very nature of things, of course, absolute equality of representation is not possible. The constitutional scheme, however, nearly perfect it may be, is, after all, merely the work of human hands, although I can conceive of no better plan that could have been adopted that would come more nearly, when carried out in its true spirit, accomplishing the end sought, i. e., equality of representation. In addition to providing that the attaching of district, whenever necessary, shall be to the adjoining one having the least number of inhabitants, it is provided that this apportionment shall be made every ten years.

This is manifestly intended to meet the changes in the relative populations in the districts, that may be supposed to arise from the unequal growth in population in the different sections of the State.

What may be the district adjoining having the least number of inhabitants now, may be very far from being such district ten years from now.

The fact that the scheme may not be perfect, and does not secure absolute equality of representation, does not relieve these officers from carrying out the letter and spirit of the constitution and thereby secure as nearly equality of representation as the nature of the case affords.

The plain constitutional duty of these officers was to apply these constitutional rules and so apportion the State as to secure as nearly equality in representation as possible.

In doing this, it was their express duty to attach each district that had not sufficient population to entitle it to separate representation, to the adjoining district having the least number of inhabitants.

This would seem to be a very plain and simple performance, and not require the efforts of any outsiders. The officers could do that themselves, any two of them, and there ought not to have been any trouble to agree about it.

It was a mere matter of computation. That is what the constitution contemplated, and that is all it is when officers go on to carry out these provisions with an eye single to the proper object of the apportionment.

Now, I admit that it may happen at some time that this can not be done in every instance; that some one deficient district in an apportionment may have to be attached to an adjoining district that is not the one having the least number of inhabitants.

These, however, are exceptional cases, and can only arise because such small district has been necessarily attached to some other district.

By necessarily, I mean that in the general apportionment, and to secure equality of representation, it became necessary to so attach it.

Notwithstanding such exceptional circumstances that may arise, these officers can not be relieved upon any other consideration from complying with these two plain constitutional provisions, to-wit:

To attach districts not having sufficient population to entitle them to separate representation to the adjoining district having the least number of population, and to do this at each decennial apportionment.

Now, the majority of these officers, in so far as they have undertaken to discharge the duties devolved upon them in this respect, have wholly ignored these provisions of the constitution—

First—In assuming to attach districts having less than a three-fourths ratio to adjoining district, not being the one having the least number of inhabitants.

Second—By assuming to be relieved from attaching other districts of less than three-fourths ratio, upon the ground that they had been attached at a former apportionment by other officers, and not having acquired a sufficient number of inhabitants to entitle them to separate representation that such annexation should continue.

And assuming to allot to such last described districts, taken together senatorial representation as though attached by them in their apportionment, although by so doing districts having less than a three-fourths ratio were allowed to remain attached to adjoining districts, not being the ones having the least number of inhabitants.

This, I claim, is all in direct violation of the letter and spirit of the constitution, subversive of the very purpose and intent of that instrument; that it works injustice, unfairness and inequality in the senatorial representation of the state.

They have assumed to attach the fourteenth to the ninth district, although it is not pretended that the ninth district is the adjoining district to the fourteenth, having the least number of inhabitants. The nineteenth district is such district, and there can be no reasonable pretense of any necessity of joining to the ninth rather than the fourteenth.

The purpose, manifestly, was to smother the ninth district, and to deprive its people of the right to separate representation.

This, as said before, is all matter of computation. The entire population of the state is 3,672,316. The senatorial ratio is 104,924, and the three-fourths ratio entitling to separate senatorial representation is 78,693.

The ninth district had 91,791, or enough to entitle it to separate senatorial representation.

The fourteenth had 72,637, or less than enough, and therefore to be attached to the adjoining district having the least number of inhabitants.

The nineteenth district being an adjoining district, with a population of only 63,461 was the district adjoining having the least number of inhabitants.

Yet the fourteenth is attached to the ninth, and not to the nineteenth. Why?

Why was not this plain provision of the constitution followed?

I suppose every one at all familiar with the question knows why; and one of the interesting questions in this case is, whether later-day ingenuity may defeat the very intent and purpose for which the scheme of decennial apportionments were devised.

To demonstrate how the purpose of the constitution to secure as nearly as may be equality of representation is defeated by this performance—and the same thing is true wherever the district is attached to a district other than the one having the least number of inhabitants—I ask the court to consider briefly these figures:

If the fourteenth district is attached to the nineteenth, where it belongs, you have this result: these two districts have together a population of 136,098, or a fraction over the ratio of 31,174. This, multiplied by five, the number of sessions in the ten years, gives 155,870, or one ratio, entitling them to one additional senator, leaving but 50,946 as unrepresented during the ten years. Whereas, under the present proposed arrangement, annexing the fourteenth to the ninth, gives a population of 164,428, which is a fraction over one full ratio of 59,504. This multiplied by five gives 297,520, or two ratios, and leaves 87,672, as unrepresented, or over 36,000 more than the other way.

This was the very thing the constitution sought to prevent and provide against.

The people of the ninth district plainly have the right to separate senatorial representation—a right of which they should not be deprived, unless it shall become necessary in order to secure equality of representation throughout the State.

If it is said the reason the nineteenth district was not attached to the fourteenth was that it was necessary to attach it to the eighteenth district, I say "Not so."

These officers did not attach it; they assumed to have found it attached—a proposition I will come to presently. But the eighteenth was not the adjoining district to the nineteenth having the least number of inhabitants, and these officers are as much in violation of their duty in assuming to allow them to remain attached as in assuming to attach the fourteenth to the ninth.

Now, having started out upon a wrong basis, the objective point being evidently to smother the ninth district under the republican vote of the fourteenth and, being determined to make every thing bend to that idea, we find them attaching, or recognizing as being attached, the fifteenth and sixteenth districts.

Now, the fifteenth district has a population of 82,361, and, is therefore, entitled to separate representation. It is not the district adjoining the sixteenth having the least population, the seventeenth being that district.

Now, why should they have attached these two, if what they have done may be said to be doing so; and if not, I submit they have not performed their duty by not attaching it somewhere.

The same thing may be said in respect to this as to the other, being in direct violation of both the letter and spirit of the constitution.

The same things may be said—and I don't care to repeat them—in respect to the attaching the eighteenth to the nineteenth, and the seventeenth to the twenty-eighth. In both cases the express terms of the constitution requiring the attachment to be made to the adjoining district having the least number of inhabitants was wholly ignored.

The seventeenth was attached to the twenty-eighth when it should have been to the sixteenth; the eighteenth to the nineteenth, when it should have been to the twenty-eighth.

I understand, however, it is claimed that the necessity of attaching or of continuing the annexation of these several districts referred to in the proceedings hereto attached, arises from the fact that these several districts had been annexed at the last preceding apportionment, and not having acquired population sufficient to enable them to elect separately, etc., these officers must therefore allow such former annexation and attachment to stand, whatever may be the change in the surrounding situation.

This position illustrates, I think, the extent to which a mistaken idea may go, as no such thing was contemplated by the framers of the constitution.

Their object was to have apportionments made every ten years to meet the changes that would occur in the different sections of the State in the matter of population. It was contemplated that some sections of the State would grow in population much more rapidly than others, so that a new adjustment or apportionment would become necessary to conform to these changes and in order to keep an equality in legislative and senatorial representation.

By an examination of the constitutional debates it will be found, page 5, vol. 2, that it was urged and moved that the apportionment should be made every five instead of ten years, and although the proposition was defeated, it was so mainly upon the ground that it would require the taking of the census other than the federal one, and because it would require other schemes of the constitution, theretofore agreed upon to be changed; particularly, it would interfere with the biennial sessions of the legislature, etc.

On page 5, is found the following: Mr. Remelin moved to amend by striking out the word "ten" and inserting the word "five" instead.

Mr. Remelin said: "Among other things, I believe that the apportionment of the State upon the basis of the enumeration made only every ten years would be productive of serious injustice to certain portions of the State; in some sections the population is increasing with great rapidity, others are nearly stationary. In the rapidly growing parts the population would, even in five years, be far in advance of the representation.

"Take for example, the census of 1840 as applied to 1845, even, and great injustice would accrue." He thought five years as long as it would be practicable to district the State upon the same enumeration. I call the court's attention to this to show the view taken of the subject by the framers of the constitution. The evident purpose of the constitution is to apportion the State every ten years, as it stands then in respect to population. The duty to attach the district having less than a three-fourths ratio to the adjoining one having the least number of inhabitants was to be exercised at every decennial apportionment.

The district that contained the least number of inhabitants at one decennial apportionment may be one that contained the most at the next; the duty to annex to the least, adjoining, is without condition.

If the rule contended for by the defendant is the true one, then no matter how much the one annexed district might grow in ten years, if the other has not grown enough to entitle it to separate representation, they may never be separated, but all subsequent officers must treat them as annexed.

With all respect to the gentlemen who maintain this view, it appears to me absurd and wholly in conflict with the letter of the constitution, the spirit, purpose and intent of the plan of apportionment adopted by the framers of that instrument.

I understand that some authority for such position is claimed in the nature of a precedent said to have been established by officers who made the preceding apportionment; that the Governor, Auditor and Secretary of State in 1881 asserted and recognized this principle. I have to say in respect to that, if they did, and they seemed to have treated the matter in that way, judging from the language employed, these gentlemen were as much mistaken as are the gentlemen who are assuming to act upon that view now.

Furthermore, the value of the action of the preceding board is weakened when it is considered that such action was never questioned, because at that time it made no difference; the districts they assumed to recognize as having been annexed, and that would remain annexed, were districts that they would have been bound to attach at any rate.

That is to say, "that the said, the seventeenth district, composed of the counties of Knox and Morrow, and the twenty-eighth district, composed of the counties of Wayne and Holmes, having been annexed at the last preceding apportionment, and not having acquired sufficient population to entitle them to elect separately, shall be entitled to one senator in each session," etc.

Now, as a matter of fact, the seventeenth district was the district having the least number of inhabitants adjoining the twenty-eighth, and it was the duty of these officers to have attached them; so whether they simply said, "We recognize them as being already attached, or we hereby attach them to one another," made no practical difference; it was like giving a bad reason for a proper conclusion; their proceedings were never questioned.

However, if precedents are to be relied upon, I cite one, the elder one, the one nearer the time when the duty was created against this recent innovation. In the apportionment of the State for the second decennial period in the year 1861, O. L., vol. 58, page 166, we find the following: "The seventeenth district, composed of of the counties of Knox and Morrow, having less than three-fourths of a senatorial ratio of population, was, as required by the constitution, attached to the adjoining district having the least number of inhabitants, which is the twenty-eighth district, composed of the counties of Wayne and Holmes."

Then follows: "The twenty-eighth district, with the seventeenth district attached, will be entitled to one senator," etc., etc.

Now in the apportionment of the State for the third decennial period, O. L., vol. 68, p. 238, we find: "The seventeenth district, composed of the counties of Knox and Morrow, having less than three-fourths of a senatorial ratio of population, was, as required by the constitution, attached to the adjoining district having the least number of inhabitants, which is the twenty-eighth district, composed of the counties of Wayne and Holmes." And again, "The twenty-eighth district, with the seventeenth district so attached, as aforesaid, shall be entitled to," etc.

It will be observed that in both of these apportionments the officers making them carefully refrain from referring to the districts when annexed, as though they constituted one district. They are referred to as separate, as the twenty-eighth, with the seventeenth attached, shall be entitled, etc., recognizing their separate existence, only attached for ten years and until the next apportionment.

The next thing to be observed is, that notwithstanding the seventeenth and twenty-eighth districts were annexed by the apportionment of 1871, the officers who made the apportionment of 1881, although the same state of facts existed then, deemed it proper to annex this district, the same as in the first place, recognizing the necessity of attaching them again, and in their own language, finding such action "to be required by the constitution."

But without considering what has been the practice upon the subject, the provisions of the constitution itself would seem to be too clear for controversy. The mistake that these gentlemen have fallen into is in supposing that section 4, article XI, of the constitution, has any thing whatever to do with the senatorial districts or representation. That it has no such application becomes apparent when the difference in the nature of senatorial and representative districts is considered.

Senatorial districts, by express provision of the constitution, shall never be changed, section 10, article XI: "No change shall ever be made * * * in the senatorial districts except as above provided." The "except as above provided" refers to section nine, which reads and is the only section that provides for any change in the senatorial districts: "Any county forming a part of a senatorial district, having acquired a population equal to the full senatorial ratio, shall be made a separate senatorial district at any regular decennial apportionment—if a full senatorial ratio shall be left in the district from which it shall be taken.”

“The exception contained in this section refers to the eighth and ninth sections. The provisions of this section irrevocably fix the districts and apportion the representation for ten years. At the expiration of that period, other sections of the eleventh article direct specifically in what manner the executive officers charged with the duty shall ascertain and fix it for another period of ten years. It is manifest that no change, alteration, or modification of the representative districts is allowed between the periods of decennial apportionment. Unlike the senate districts, they are not forever to remain unchanged; on the contrary, they must of necessity, at the expiration of each ten years, so change as to conform to the boundaries of counties, as they are then found to exist, and the limits of districts at those periods become again identical with those of the counties.”

State vs. Dudley, O. S., 437-444, 446, 447.

The senatorial districts are created and unalterably fixed by the constitution, whereas the constitution provides for the changing of legislative districts, the creation of new ones, the change of old ones from time to time; the limitation being that such changes shall be made only at the decennial periods.

Now, how are these changes effected in legislative districts? In two ways. By section 4: “Any county forming with another county or counties a representative district, during one decennial period, if it has acquired sufficient population at the next decennial period, shall be entitled to a separate representation, if there shall be left in the district from which it shall have been separated a population sufficient for a representative.”

Now, this is the way a representative district may be created and changed, and new districts are made by separation; where there was but one before two are made.

Could any one possibly claim that this section can have any thing whatever to do, has any application in the world, to senatorial districts?

This section is regulating the creation or erection of legislative districts, by dividing and separating the districts before that time existing, the very thing that can not be done in respect to senatorial districts.

The fifth section provides for the creation of legislative districts by attaching small ones under the circumstances, provides that the districts so formed shall have representation determined as herein provided; so that taking these two sections together we have the manner in which legislative districts may be formed at decennial periods. The limitations placed upon the right to separation is that the county taken away or erected into a separate legislative district shall have a sufficient population to entitle it to separate representation, and shall leave remaining in the district from which it was taken sufficient inhabitants to separate representation. When the district is created by attaching, the limitation is that it must be attached to the county adjoining having the least number of inhabitants, etc. The section that must be supposed to make these provisions applicable to legislative districts, apply to senatorial districts, is section 8, article XI, which reads as follows: “The same rule shall be applied in apportioning the fractions of senatorial districts and in annexing districts which may hereafter have less than three-fourths of a senatorial ratio as are applied to representative districts.” It would seem hard to misunderstand this section, and yet these gentlemen, following the mistake of 1881, would seem to have done so; they would seem to have construed it as though it read that “not only shall the same rules be applied in apportioning fractions of senatorial districts and in annexing such districts which may hereafter have less than three-fourths of a ratio, as are applied to representative districts” (exactly what the constitution says), but also “that the same rules, in dividing a district and separating one portion of it from the other, and making out districts, out of one district,” shall be applied to senatorial districts as are applied to representative districts.

The trouble is, the constitution says no such thing, and says elsewhere the exact contrary, that senatorial districts shall never be changed save and except as provided in section 9, article XI.

In a case where a county has acquired population enough to entitle it to senatorial representation, it may be erected into a district, providing enough inhabitants remain in the district outside of such county to entitle it to representation. The expression of the one thing is the exclusion of the other.

That rules in regard to annexing districts having less than three-fourths ratio shall be applied to senatorial districts, as are applied to representative districts, I admit the constitution so says. The rule is, that it must be attached to adjoining district having the least number of inhabitants. This, and in respect to the apportionment of fractions, is all that section four refers to.

Section eight says that the same rules shall be applied, first, in apportioning the fraction of senatorial districts as are applied to representative districts. This rule, we all understand to be, that when the fraction over a ratio is so large that, if multiplied by five, it gives one or more ratios, then senatorial representation must be allotted the same as in the case of representative districts. Second, it provides that, in annexing districts which may hereafter have less than three-fourths of a senatorial ratio, the same rules as are applied to representative districts. Those rules, we all understand to be, that such districts shall be attached to the district adjoining it having the least number of inhabitants, and that is all there is about it.

Where these gentlemen get any authority any where in the constitution for saying the fifteenth district, composed of the counties of Muskingum and Perry, and the sixteenth district, composed of the counties of Delaware and Licking, having been annexed at the last preceding apportionment, and not having acquired sufficient population to entitle them to elect separately, etc., is beyond my apprehension. The fifteenth district had sufficient population to elect separately; it had 82,861 of a population, which is more than a three-fourths ratio.

Now, these gentlemen seem to have been entirely led captive by the error they had fallen into—the misconstruction placed upon these provisions of the constitution—led thereunto doubtless by the language of the officers in the apportionment of 1881. We find them referring to the districts after they were annexed as though they were one district—as though the two together constituted a district—and they are justified in this if their other position is correct.

If the annexation of two districts were continued longer than ten years, and may be disunited or annexed to another district only if there remains enough population in the other district to entitle it to separate senatorial representation, then, of course, the annexing of one district to another is a creation of a district that may never be disunited.

To show what mistaken premises may lead to, having concluded that annexing or attaching one district to another constitutes the two into one district, to be separated only upon the same rules applicable to legislative districts, it was but an easy step to the conclusion that they created senatorial districts the same as representative districts. This followed logically, so we have them here saying "the following districts, until they acquire sufficient population to entitle them to elect separately."

Not for ten years, be it remembered, but until such time as they shall acquire sufficient population, etc., and if that time shall never come, then such district shall last forever.

The gentlemen are to be commended for their willingness to relieve the future apportioning officers of a large share of their duties, but these districts that are thus created to last until they get a sufficient population to entitle them to separate representation, all the second and fourth "shall form one district, the district so constituted shall be entitled," etc.

There can be no doubt as to what these gentlemen thought they were doing; they were forming, creating and constituting districts in their minds, as we think, that might last forever, unless the condition should happen upon which alone they would be entitled to separate representation. But not satisfied with creating districts that the old lines, senatorial lines, have fixed by the constitution, they proposed to constitute a district composed of the counties of Athens, Hocking, Fairfield, Washington, Morgan, and parts of the counties of Noble and Monroe; what parts of these two counties last named do not appear.

Of course they can not do this, but I do not care about this.

Their performance in this behalf may be a mere oversight. My objection to their proceeding goes to the whole apportionment; the whole scheme is based upon a mistake and misconception of the rule of the constitution that should govern them and applicable to the subject they had in hand.

The apportionment is not only unfair and unjust in its results, but is clearly based upon a misconception of the duties of these apportioning officers and interpretation of the constitutional provisions that should control their actions; that it is opposed to the letter and spirit of that instrument as in direct conflict with the purpose and intention of the scheme of apportionment provided for in the constitution, in counter-distinction to the language of these gentlemen, in their abortive attempt to apportion this State and to constitute districts.

I call the court's attention again to the language employed by the officers that apportioned the State in the second and third decennial period. In both places the language is the same:

"The seventeenth district, composed of the counties of Knox and Morrow, having less than three-fourths of a senatorial ratio of population, is, as required by the constitution, attached to the adjoining district having the least number of inhabitants, which is the twenty-eight district, composed of the counties of Wayne and Holmes.

"The twenty-eighth district with the seventeenth district so attached shall be entitled," etc. It never seemed to strike these apportioning officers that they were creating and constituting districts; they supposed that they were attaching them, to remain so attached until the next apportionment day came.

When that day did come, the apportioning officers then in charge proceeded to apportion the State exactly as if it had not been done before—they proceeded to attach the same districts in the same words.

I would like to present my views more fully upon this subject, but want of time prevents me, and am not sure but what I have made my views upon the matter as clear as I could do.

I claim that these apportioning officers had no discretion.

Their constitutional duty was to ascertain the population of the State by the federal census and proceed to apportion the State for representatives and senators, as provided in article XI of the constitution; that, in doing so, it is their absolute duty to attach any senatorial district having a less population than a three-fourths ratio to the adjoining district having the least number of inhabitants; that they could not be relieved from this except in the case (that did not occur this time) where it became necessary to attach such adjoining district having the least number of inhabitants to another district; that they had no right to treat the districts that had been attached by the former apportioning officers as being districts that were not attached; their duty was to apportion the State exactly as though no apportionment had ever been made, and to attach the districts in accordance to their population exactly as they found them by the last federal census; that the relator, John Gallagher, being a citizen and elector of the ninth district, Hocking county, Ohio, has the right to insist upon having this State apportioned in accordance with the provisions of the constitution, and to have the separate senatorial representation preserved to the ninth district of Ohio, as long as the balance of the State is apportioned in accordance with the constitution.

T. E. Powell FOR RELATOR.

Section 11 of article XI of the constitution provides:

"The Governor, Auditor and Secretary of State, or any two of them, shall, at least six months prior to the October election, in the year 1861, and at each decennial period thereafter, ascertain and determine the ratio of representation according to the decennial census, the number of representatives and senators each county or district shall be entitled to elect, and for what years within the next ensuing ten years, and the Governor shall cause the same to be published in such manner as shall be directed by law."

Section 6 of the same article provides the ratio for a senator shall forever, hereafter, be ascertained by dividing the whole population of the state by the number thirty-five.

The whole population of Ohio, by the last federal census, was ascertained to be 3,672,316, which, divided by the number thirty-five, gives the senatorial ratio at 104,924, and a three-fourths of the ratio at 78,693.

By section 7 of article XI, the state was divided into thirty-three senatorial districts, and the county or counties composing these districts are named in the same section.

Section 10 provides as follows: "For the first ten years after the year 1851 the apportionment of representatives shall be as provided in the schedule and no change shall ever be made in the principles of representation as herein established or in the senatorial districts except as above provided."

Section 8 of the same article provides the same rules shall be applied in apportioning the fractions of senatorial districts, and in annexing districts which may hereafter have less than three-fourths the senatorial ratio as are applied to representative districts.

Section 5 of the same article reads as follows: "If in fixing any subsequent ratio, a county previously entitled to a separate representation shall have less than the number required by the new ratio for representative, such county shall be attached to the county adjoining it having the least number of inhabitants, and the representation of the district so formed shall be determined as herein provided."

We claim, therefore, that under these provisions no change can ever be made in the senatorial districts so long as the districts retain a senatorial ratio or three-fourths of a senatorial ratio, and whenever it is ascertained at any decennial apportionment that a district previously entitled to a separate representation has less than three-fourths of the senatorial ratio, such district shall be attached to the district adjoining it having the least number of inhabitants, and the representation of the district so formed shall be determined by the provisions of said article fixing the rules of representation for all the districts.

We claim on behalf of the plaintiff that the defendants, in ascertaining and determining the ratio of representation according to the last decennial census and the number of senators each district shall be entitled to elect, had no power or authority to change any district as created by section 7 of article XI of the constitution, so long as such district retained at least three-fourths of a senatorial ratio as ascertained by the last federal census. We also claim that each district as created by said section 7 is entitled to separate senatorial representation, if it has been ascertained and determined that said district retains three-fourths of a senatorial ratio as determined under section 7 of said article. It became the duty therefor of the defendants to determine what senatorial districts still retain under the last census a full senatorial ratio, or three-fourths of a senatorial ratio, and after having determined this, it became the duty of the defendants to determine the number of senators each district shall be entitled to elect, and for what years within the next ensuing ten years. This duty, it must be conceded, the defendants have neglected and failed to perform. The ninth district had a population, according to the last census, of 91,791. The fifteenth district, 82,861. Each of these districts, therefore, had more than three-fourths of a senatorial ratio, which three-fourths of a ratio was only 78,698, and each of these districts is, therefore, entitled to separate senatorial representation, and the defendants should have determined the number of senators each of said districts should be entitled to elect, and for what years within the next ensuing ten years.

In the case of the State of Ohio, ex rel. Evans vs. Dudley, 1 O. S. 444, the court says:

"By the 7th section of article IX, the State is divided into thirty-three senatorial districts, electing for the first decennial period thirty-five senators." "By the 10th section of the same article, it is expressly provided that no change shall ever be made in the principles of representation as herein established, or to the senatorial districts except as above provided." "The exception refers to the 8th and 9th sections, the first of which provides for the apportionment of fractions after the first ten years and for annexing districts which may fall below three-fourths of a senatorial ratio to the adjoining district, and the last gives to any county included in a senatorial district, which has acquired a population equal to a full senatorial ratio, the right at any regular decennial apportionment to be made a separate senatorial district if a full senatorial ratio is left in the district from which it is taken. Subject to these qualifications which have no bearing upon the question under consideration the districts formed by the constitution must forever remain unchanged."

It further appears that the defendants have undertaken to create a district of which the ninth district is to constitute a part in the words following: "The ninth district and fourteenth district composed of Athens, Hocking, Fairfield, Washington and Morgan, and a part of the counties of Noble and Monroe shall form one district, and the district so constituted shall be entitled to one senator in each session and one additional senator in the third and fourth sessions of the decennial period."

The defendants also assumed to create a district composed of the eighteenth district and a part of the nineteenth district in the words following: The eighteenth district composed of the counties of Tuscarawas and Coshocton, and the nineteenth district composed of the county of Guernsey and parts of the counties of Monroe and Noble, having been annexed at the last preceding apportionment and not having acquired sufficient population to entitle them to elect separately, shall be entitled to one senator in each session and one additional senator in the fifth session of the decennial period."

We claim that the attempt of the defendants to create these joint districts, as above described, is clearly contrary to the provisions of the constitution. First, because the constitution provides that the districts, as created by the constitution, shall always remain, except as changes are necessarily made by changes in population, and such changes in population shall only continue during the decennial period in which they are created for the purpose of giving proper senatorial representation to the various districts of the State in proportion to the population. The work of any decennial apportionment only continues until the next federal census, and in making the apportionment at any decennial period the officers are to take as their rule in ascertaining and determining representation the districts as created by the constitution and not those which may have been united during any preceding decennial period. Again, it will be seen that parts of the counties of Noble and Monroe are attached to the joint district composed of the ninth and fourteenth districts, and also the other parts of the same counties are attached to the joint districts composed of the eighteenth and nineteenth districts, and there is no description given indicating what parts of the said counties are annexed to the one joint district and what parts of the counties are annexed to the other joint district.

We claim that there is but one way in which this apportionment can be made in accordance with the provisions of the constitution. That the defendants shall—

1st. Determine which districts of the State, as described in the constitution, have more than three-fourths of a senatorial ratio and are entitled to separate senatorial representation, and they shall ascertain and determine such representation accordingly.

2d. If any county, included in a senatorial district, has acquired a population equal to the full senatorial ratio it shall be made into a separate senatorial district if a full senatorial ratio is left in the district from which it is taken.

3d. That the districts which have less than three-fourths of a senatorial ratio shall be annexed to the districts adjoining having the least number of inhabitants. This, we claim, has not been done. The ninth district is entitled to separate senatorial representation; the fifteenth is also entitled to separate senatorial representation. Neither of these districts has been granted such representation by the apportionment made by the defendants. Again, the defendants have not taken the districts which are not entitled to separate representation and annexed them to the districts adjoining having the least number of inhabitants, but have attempted to create joint districts because they were annexed at some preceding apportionment when the same districts could not now be annexed or created into joint districts in accordance with the provisions of the constitution in such case made and provided.

It is claimed by the defendants that they have retained joint districts annexed by a former decennial committee or board, because section 4, of article XI, requires such joint districts to be retained unless each district shall have acquired sufficient population to entitle it to separate senatorial representation. This claim can not be sustained by any construction which can be put upon provisions of the constitution applying to the question. It will be seen in the first place that section four is a provision for the separation of counties composing a representative district and can not be applied to a senatorial district, unless it comes within the provisions of section eight, which reads as follows: "The same rule shall be applied in apportioning the fractions of senatorial districts, and in annexing districts which may hereafter have less than three-fourths of a senatorial ratio, as are applied to representative districts." It will be seen, therefore, from this section that the rules governing the apportioning of fractions and in annexing districts shall be applied to senatorial districts as are provided for representative districts. But in separating districts it will be found that one rule was adopted for representative districts, as in section four, and another rule was adopted for senatorial districts, as in section nine.

It is provided by section four that representative districts may be separated whenever there shall be in each portion of a district one-half of a ratio; but under section nine a senatorial district can not be separated until there shall be found in each portion of a district a full senatorial ratio. Our claim, therefore, is that, as the constitution provides that the same rules applying to representative districts for the purpose of annexing shall also be applied to senatorial districts, excludes the idea that it was also intended that the same rules should be adopted for the separation of districts.

Again, when it comes to the separation of districts, a different rule was provided for the separation of senatorial districts than the one already adopted for the separation of representative districts under section four. To remove all possible doubt upon the subject, the constitution clearly indicates that section four was to apply to a particular class of representative districts, which will be found in section nineteen of the schedule, which reads as follows:

"The following counties, until they shall have acquired a sufficient population to entitle them to elect separately under the fourth section of the eleventh article, shall form districts in the manner following, etc." Here is a clear indication that section four was adopted for the purpose of forming a rule for the separation of the representative districts created by section nineteen of the schedule to the constitution, and was not intended to apply to senatorial districts at all.

Again, we claim that all the provisions of the constitution can be executed by following the construction contended for by the plaintiff. But if the construction claimed by the defendants should prevail, several features of the constitution must be set aside. The claim of the defendants can not be sustained without denying to some of the senatorial districts of the State, which are clearly entitled to it, separate senatorial representation, and districts which are not entitled to separate senatorial representation instead of being annexed to the adjoining districts having the least population are annexed to adjoining districts having the largest population. As between these two rules we claim the court must adopt the one which will carry out all the provisions of the constitution instead of the one which will set aside several of them.

We further claim that the annexing of senatorial districts is only for the purpose of fixing representation for the decennial period, and there is no more reason why the annexed districts should be retained at a subsequent period than that the representation should be retained. There are just as many reasons why the entire work of the apportioning committee of the board should be retained as the annexations which they have made should be retained.

It was contended in the argument in this case by the counsel for the defendants that the construction contended for by the plaintiff would promote gerrymandering, whereas, the truth of the matter is just the reverse. It is not possible to gerrymander the senatorial districts of the state by returning to the senatorial districts as created by the constitution any more than it was possible to gerrymander the state by the constitution itself. But it is possible for a political party to gerrymander by following the work of former decennial boards. In other words, if the work of former decennial boards is to be followed, many of the provisions of the constitution can be set aside and representation awarded to the different districts of the State entirely different from what was intended by the constitution. This, of course, would be gerrymandering. But whenever representation is awarded in strict accordance with the letter and spirit of the constitution, such work would be above the control of any political party. It was claimed by counsel in this case that it would be at least a guide to us to look at the construction of the constitution which has been given by former apportioning boards. By looking at the proceedings of the apportioning boards of 1861, 1871 and 1881 we find that the districts were taken up in numerical order and that each district which had more than three-fourths of a senatorial ratio was awarded separate senatorial representation. For the first time in the history of our State the defendants have denied representation to two senatorial districts which have more than three-fourths of a senatorial representation. Again, they have refused to annex districts having the least population, but have, in violation of the constitution, annexed districts to adjoining districts which had the largest population, and in two instances, at least, which were entitled to separate senatorial representation. If this work is to be approved and to be continued, it will end in violating every provision of the constitution applying to the subject and awarding representation to the different portions of the State entirely different from what was intended by the constitution. We think, therefore, that the court should require the defendants to award separate representation to the ninth and fifteenth districts, as claimed by the plaintiff, and that the districts which have not sufficient population to permit of separate representation, should be annexed to the districts adjoining having the least population, without reference to where they were annexed at any former period. Such a construction will carry out and execute every provision of the constitution; but on the other hand, if the court should approve of the work of the defendants, it will result in setting aside three provisions of the constitution, and will end in entirely defeating the express letter and spirit of the constitution as to the manner in which senatorial representation should be awarded to the various districts of the State.

BRIEFS AND ARGUMENTS FOR DEFENDANTS.

D. K. Watson FOR DEFENDANTS.

One of the most difficult problems which devolved upon the framers of the constitution of our State was to provide a system of representation, by which the inhabitants of the State should, in the future, be fairly and equitably represented in the legislative branch of the state government. They knew that great and rapid changes would occur in the population of certain portions of the State which would render the adoption of any fixed rule impracticable. Many sections would increase in population, while many other sections would either decrease or remain substantially the same, and it was the aim and purpose of the framers of the constitution to meet and overcome this condition of affairs, by providing, as far as possible, an absolute just system as the basis for future representation.

The entire subject of the apportionment of the State for representative and senatorial purposes is found in the eleventh article of our state constitution, and that article contains eleven sections. The first apportionment was made by the constitutional convention of 1851. The eleventh section of the eleventh article of the constitution specifies and directs by whom, and when, subsequent apportionments should be made, to-wit: The Governor, Auditor of State and Secretary of State, or any two of them, are required in the year 1861, and every tenth year thereafter, to ascertain and determine the ratio of representation, according to the decennial census, the number of representatives and senators each county or district shall be entitled to elect, and for what years within the next ensuing ten years, and when that has been ascertained by the above named officers, the Governor is required to cause said apportionment to be published according to law. The duty, therefore, devolves upon the said officers, or a majority of them, every tenth year, to apportion the State for representative and senatorial representation; but it is the manner in which such apportionment is made which gives rise to the questions involved in this case.

In pursuance of the aforesaid provisions of the constitution, the defendants, or a majority of them, apportioned the State for the decennial period from 1891 to 1901, according to the apportionment annexed to the petition. It is claimed by opposing counsel that because said apportionment places a part of Monroe county in the fourteenth, and the balance of said county in the nineteenth senatorial district, therefore the territorial limits of said district were changed and new senatorial districts formed, and in that way the constitution was violated. By an examination of the act of March 11, 1851, which was passed by the General Assembly the day following the adoption of the constitution by the convention, which framed it, it will be seen that the county of Noble was created by taking a part of the counties of Washington, Morgan, Guernsey and Monroe, and by reference to the apportionment made by the constitutional convention of 1851, it will be seen that Washington and Morgan counties constituted the fourteenth, while Guernsey and Monroe constituted the nineteenth senatorial district. It, therefore, necessarily followed, that a part of the citizens of Noble county, which was the new county carved out of the other four, so far as senatorial representation was concerned, would be represented in the fourteenth and the remainder in the nineteenth district. All this fully appears from the case of Ohio ex rel. vs. Dudley, 1 Ohio State, pages 440-444. It will also be seen by reference to the act of 1851 above referred to, that a part of Washington county, which, by the constitutional apportionment, was in the fourteenth district, was taken from that county and attached to Monroe county, which was in the nineteenth district under the constitutional apportionment, and, therefore, a part of Monroe county was in the fourteenth, while the balance of it was in the nineteenth district. Thus it will be clearly seen and understood why the majority of the late apportioning board described the fourteenth and nineteenth districts as containing "part of the counties of Noble and Monroe;" and it will be further seen that said description was both accurate and truthful, and that any other description would have been neither accurate nor truthful. It would seem that if opposing counsel had carefully examined the act of 1851 creating Noble county and had also carefully examined the opinion of Judge Ranney in the case of Ohio ex rel. vs. Dudley, supra, they could hardly be serious in charging the defendants, or a majority of them, with violating the constitution by placing a part of Monroe county in the fourteenth, and the balance in the nineteenth district, thereby changing those districts territorially. Nor do counsel seem to have discovered that the Monroe county mentioned in the constitutional apportionment is not as to its territorial boundaries the Monroe county with which the late apportionment board dealt, for the board took that county as the act of 1851 left it, and not as the constitutional convention left it, and this was clearly right.

Counsel for the relator also take the position, that for the purpose of senatorial representation, the apportionment board can consider only such senatorial districts as were originally carved out by the constitutional convention. In other words, they say that the framers of the constitution divided the State into a given number of senatorial districts, and that these districts are the only ones which could be considered by any apportionment board at any subsequent decennial period. The logic of their argument is, that at the expiration of each decennial period, the senatorial districts for that period, became disunited, and expired, and, that by some kind of politico-chemical process the original districts as framed by the constitutional convention revived and came together, and furnished the basis for the new apportionment board to work upon.

In my judgment, no authority for this position can be found in any reasonable construction of the constitution. That instrument points out and designates with tolerable, if not exact clearness, what the apportionment board is to do in apportioning the State for senatorial representation, and when and how it is to do it. The first section of the eleventh article throws light upon this question. It says: "The apportionment of this State for members of the General Assembly shall be made every ten years, after the year 1851." It then proceeds to specify how the ratio of representation for representative is to be determined, but the first provision of the section "that the apportionment of this State for members of the General Assembly," refers evidently not only to the House of Representatives, but to the Senate as well, for by section 1 of article XI of the constitution, the General Assembly of the State consists of the Senate and House of Representatives.

The argument and suggestion which I draw from this section is, if the apportionment of the State for members of the General Assembly (that is, the apportionment for both the Senate and House of Representatives) is to be made every ten years, what authority or basis is there for the proposition that the senatorial districts are to always endure, as they were created by the constitutional convention? The constitution nowhere says, that the apportionment for senatorial purposes is to be made upon the basis of the senatorial districts as they were made by the framers of the constitution. With the exception that the term "General Assembly," as used in the first section includes the Senate and House of Representatives, there is no mention of senatorial representation in either the 1st, 2d, 3d, 4th or 5th sections of the 11th Article of the constitution. Those sections deal exclusively with county or district representation; and senatorial representation or senatorial districts are not mentioned in either of them. But, (with the exception above noted), the senatorial question is mentioned, for the first time, in the 6th section of the 11th Article of the constitution, as follows: "The ratio for a senator shall forever, hereafter, be ascertained by dividing the whole population of the State by the number thirty-five." The next section divides the State into thirty-three senatorial districts and proceeds to define them. It says: "The State is hereby divided into thirty-three senatorial districts, as follows." So far, the constitution has dealt entirely with full senatorial Districts. It was evident, however, that if the senatorial apportionment had stopped there, a gross injustice would have been done. The population of the State was subject to many and great fluctuations. Some provision, therefore, had to be made to meet the changes which would naturally occur in senatorial districts, and, instead of going into detail and specifying at length, and with great circumlocution, as to the representation of fractional senatorial districts, or the annexation of senatorial districts, the constitution provides for those subjects in the eighth section, which reads as follows: "The same rules shall be applied, in apportioning the fractions of senatorial districts, and in annexing districts, which may hereafter have less than three-fourths of a senatorial ratio, as are applied to representative districts." It will be observed that this section does two things, and only two; first, it applies the same rules in apportioning the fractions of senatorial districts, which may hereafter have less than three-fourths of a senatorial ratio, as are applied to representative districts; and second, it applies the same rules in annexing (senatorial) districts as are applied in annexing representative districts. To ascertain therefore, what these rules are which section eight refers to, we go back and examine those sections of the constitution which control in apportioning the fractions of representative districts, and we find them embraced in sections 3, 4 and 5. Section 3 provides: "When any county shall have a fraction above the ratio, so large, that being multiplied by five, the result will be equal to one or more ratios, additional representatives shall be apportioned for such ratios, among the several sessions of the decennial period in the following manner: If there be only one ratio, a representative shall be allotted to the fifth session of the decennial period; if there are two ratios, a representative shall be allotted to the fourth and third sessions, respectively; if three, to the third, second and first sessions, respectively; if four, to the fourth, third, second and first sessions, respectively." That is to say, where a county is sufficiently large to entitle it to a representative, and in addition thereto has a fractional population above the ratio, so large, that being multiplied by five, the result will equal one or more ratios, the county shall be entitled to additional representatives, to be apportioned among the several sessions of the decennial period in the manner provided in the third section.

The fourth section contemplates a different situation. It provides: "Any county forming with another county or counties, a representative district, during one decennial period, if it have acquired sufficient population at the next decennial period, shall be entitled to a separate representation, if there shall be left, in the district from which it shall have been separated, a population sufficient for a representative; but no such change shall be made except at the regular decennial period for the apportionment of representatives."

I infer from this section that the framers of the constitution knew, or assumed, that there were counties in the State which alone did not possess a population equaling the ratio of representation necessary to entitle them to a representative. Therefore, they grouped such counties together and called them representative districts, and with that object in view, they provided by the fourth section, that if any county forming with another county or counties, a representative district during a given decennial period, should acquire sufficient population by the next decennial period to entitle it to a separate representation, it should have it, providing there remained in the district to which that county formerly belonged, a population sufficient to entitle it (the remainder of the district) to a representative. This construction of section four is clearly sustained by a reference to the nineteenth section of the schedule, where it occurs a number of times, that counties are grouped together to form a district. For example, the counties of Jackson and Vinton form one district; the counties of Lucas and Fulton another; Wyandot and Hardin another; Mercer and Van Wert another, and the counties of Paulding, Defiance and Williams, another district, and so on.

So far, the constitution had provided for representation by counties and fractions of counties, and by representative districts. But in section five it continues the same subject and says: "If, in fixing any subsequent ratio, a county previously entitled to a separate representation, shall have less than the number required by the new ratio for a representative, such county shall be attached to the county adjoining it, having the least number of inhabitants; and the representation of the district, so formed, shall be determined as herein provided." These three sections, three, four and five, taken together, meet every requirement which the convention could conceive as being necessary respecting county fractional representation and county district representation, and also in case any county should decrease in population that it was entitled to representation under the new ratio. In this view, can there be any constitutional objection to saying that section eight, when it provides for apportioning fractional senatorial districts and in annexing districts, refers to these three sections? What purposes could the convention have accomplished by repeating the language of each section? It was certainly a simpler and shorter and equally effective way of providing for fractional senatorial representation, and for annexing senatorial districts, by referring to the provisions which controlled county or representative districts, than for the constitution to repeat the provisions of preceding sections.

Thus the late apportioning board derived its authority from section eight to apportion fractional senatorial representation, and also derived its authority from the same section for annexing senatorial districts; that is to say, when a senatorial district, which had been joined with another senatorial district, and formed a united senatorial district, had at the next decennial apportionment a sufficient population to entitle it to a separate senatorial representation, it should be given such representation, providing there was left in the remaining portion of the united district a population sufficiently large to entitle it to a senatorial representation.

Having thus ascertained what the apportionment board could do, let us now see what it did. They annexed the fourteenth senatorial district to the ninth senatorial district, because the ninth district was the least district in population adjoining the fourteenth district, and this is the principal complaint urged by the relator against the board, so far as annexing senatorial districts is concerned.

Counsel for the relator claim that the board should have annexed the nineteenth to the fourteenth district, but this was not done, because the nineteenth together with the eighteenth district constitute a district which had a greater population than the ninth district, and the ninth district had a greater population than the nineteenth district, and, therefore, under the rule prescribed by the constitution, the apportionment made by the board was correct. The nineteenth district by preceding decennial boards had been joined to the eighteenth district, and, therefore, constituted a senatorial district having a greater population than the ninth, but neither the nineteenth nor the eighteenth district had gained enough in population since the apportionment of 1881 to entitle it to a separate senatorial representation, and, therefore, neither of these districts could be given a separate representation; and neither the fifteenth nor the sixteenth district had gained sufficient population to entitle them to separate representation since 1881; and if either of them had been given a separate representation, the remaining district would not have contained sufficient population to entitle it to separate representation, and, therefore, the districts could not be separated.

It is admitted by one of the counsel for the relator, that if the constitution applies the provisions of section four to senatorial districts, the relator has no standing in court. The contention of the respondent, upon this question is, that the provisions of section four are made to apply to senatorial districts through the provisions and operations of section eight, for, as above stated, it was a matter of convenience, and to prevent repetition and circumlocution in the constitution, that in apportioning fractional senatorial districts, and in annexing senatorial districts, the provisions controlling the same subjects as applied to district representation, should be applicable to senatorial representation by the provisions of section eight. The provisions of section four are, therefore, made applicable to senatorial districts through section eight with the same force and effect as though section four directly referred to senatorial representation.

It is further contended by counsel for the relator, that section nine controls the entire subject of fractional senatorial representation, and, therefore, section eight could not have reference to section four. A careful examination of section nine will show that that section has no reference either to apportioning fractions of senatorial districts, or the annexation of senatorial districts. But, that it is a full and complete section in itself which was intended to provide, and does provide, for only one thing, namely, that when a county which formed a part of a senatorial district, has acquired a sufficient population equal to a full senatorial ratio, it should be made a separate senatorial district, at a regular decennial apportionment, providing a full senatorial ratio was left in the district from which said county was taken. There is not the slightest reference in this section either directly or by implication, to the annexing or forming of fractional senatorial districts. The expression "senatorial districts" does not occur in the 9th section. By no possible construction of language can any of its provisions be held to refer to senatorial districts, and it is difficult to understand how counsel can claim that the subject of senatorial districts is controlled by the provisions of this section.

Judge Friesner, on page 15 of his printed brief, says: "The mistake that these gentlemen have fallen into, is in supposing that section 4, article XI, of the constitution, has any thing whatever to do with the senatorial districts or representation. That it has no such application becomes apparent when the differences in the nature of senatorial and representative districts is considered." He continues: "Senatorial districts, by expressed provision of the constitution, shall never be changed;" and quotes from section 10, article XI, which says: "No change shall ever be made * * * in the senatorial districts, except as above provided." The Judge then says: "The 'except as above provided' refers to section nine." There is a conflict of opinion between Judge Friesner and Judge Ranney as to what the words "except as above provided" do refer to. Judge Friesner says, that they refer to section nine; but Judge Ranney, in the case of Ohio on the relation of Evans vs. Dudley, supra, page 444, after quoting these words, says: "The exception refers to the 8th and 9th sections, the first of which provides for the apportionment of fractions, after the first ten years, and for annexing districts which may fall below three-fourths of a senatorial ratio, to an adjoining district and the last," continues Judge Ranney, "gives to any county included in the senatorial district which has acquired a population equal to a full senatorial ratio, the right at any regular decennial apportionment to be made into a separate senatorial district, if a full senatorial ratio is left in the district from which it is taken. Subject to these qualifications * * * the districts formed by the constitution must forever remain unchanged." This language of Judge Ranney will bear the closest scrutiny. It is claimed by opposing counsel throughout their entire argument, that there is no authority in the constitution for annexing a joint or a united district to an adjoining district; but Judge Ranney seems to have taken a different view of the matter, for he says in the language above quoted, that "section eight provides for the apportionment of fractions, after the first ten years, and for annexing districts which may fall below three-fourths of a senatorial ratio, to an adjoining district, and for annexing districts."

Why does Judge Ranney say that districts which fall below three-fourths of a senatorial ratio may be annexed to an adjoining district, unless by the word "districts" he means two districts which had previously been joined or annexed? To illustrate, the constitution does not authorize the annexation of three senatorial districts, but if two districts have previously been annexed, then, under the provisions of the constitution, they may be annexed to the remaining district, and this, as I understand it, is Judge Ranney's meaning when he says that "section eight provides, among other things, for annexing districts, which may fall below three-fourths of a senatorial ratio, to an adjointing district." What other meaning can be given to Judge Ranney's language? I contend, therefore, the decision of the Supreme Court sustains the position (which is so antagonized by opposing counsel) that two senatorial districts which have previously been joined so as to form a united district, may be annexed to another senatorial district.

But, it is claimed that the position taken by a majority of the late apportionment board would result in gerrymandering, and, therefore, the plain object of the constitution would be defeated. The exact reverse of this is the truth. The theory of the majority of the respondents is, that they take the senatorial districts as they found them—that is, as they were left by the preceding apportionment board. Therefore, they can deal only with senatorial districts, which in the last decade have decreased in population, so as not to entitle them to representation. It will at once be seen by the court, that this greatly limits the opportunity of the board to gerrymander, even if the members were inclined to do so. As an illustration, the late decennial apportionment board had but four districts with which it could deal, the other districts remaining under the senatorial apportionment of 1881. The next decennial board may not have a single district which it can change. On the other hand, if the contention of the relator is correct, the board would have thirty-three districts with which to deal, and thus the opportunity to gerrymander and form combinations for political purposes (if such a suggestion can be seriously entertained of honorable gentlemen, who fill distinguished positions) would be many times greater than it would upon the theory contended for by the respondents.

There is nothing in the constitutional debates to indicate that it was the intention of the convention that the senatorial districts, as the convention apportioned them, should forever remain unchanged. On the contrary, the constitution expressly provides how they may be changed. Neither does the constitution say with what numerical district the board shall begin its apportionment; it is wholly silent upon that question, and the board was, therefore, at liberty to begin at any district it saw fit, and its action in this respect is beyond judicial control.

A. C. Thompson, ALSO FOR DEFENDANTS.

On the 13th day of April, 1891, James E. Campbell, the Governor, Ebenezer W. Poe, the Auditor of State, and Daniel J. Ryan, the Secretary of State, met and, under the provisions of section 11 of article XI of the constitution, made the decennial apportionment for representative and senatorial representation in the general assembly of the State, which is set forth in Exhibit A to the petition, and were about to make publication of the same, as directed by law, when the plaintiff intervened, asking that the Governor be restrained from making such publication and that said officers be required to make another and a different apportionment. After carefully considering the case presented in his petition, I believe the grounds of his complaint may be fairly stated in two propositions as follows:

First. That said officers, in violation of the constitution, have assumed to create new senatorial districts, by changing the territorial limits of the fourteenth and nineteenth districts, so as to include, in each, a portion of the county of Monroe.

Second. That by reference and adoption the provisions of sections 3 and 5 of article XI of the constitution are made part of section 8 of that article, but that section four is not included in the reference. Consequently that combination of senatorial districts, by annexation under the provisions of sections five and eight, continue only during the decennial period, for which a given apportionment is made, and at the end of such period, such joint senatorial districts become segregated and each is "restored to its separate character by the constitution," and, in making a new apportionment, joint districts, if necessary, must be made from the original districts, without reference to former combinations. That the constitution thus construed has been violated by the action of the board in attaching the fourteenth to the ninth district, the sixteenth to the fifteenth district, and the seventeenth to the twenty-eighth district.

As to the first proposition:

The proposition is based upon an error into which I think the plaintiff has fallen, in assuming that the Monroe county referred to in the constitutional apportionment is identical, territorially, with Monroe county as it now exists. Perhaps the plaintiff, when his petition was prepared, was not aware of the fact that the second section of the act creating the county of Noble, which was passed on the eleventh day of March, 1851, being the day after the adoption of the constitution by the convention, took from Washington county, which the constitution placed in the fourteenth district, a narrow strip of land lying along its north-eastern border and incorporated it with Monroe county, and that the inhabitants of this strip have always voted for senator in the fourteenth district. The section of the Noble county act, by which this strip was added to Monroe county, reads as follows: "Section 2. That so much of the townships of Liberty, Ludlow and Jolly, in Washington county, as lies and is situated east and north of the following described line, to-wit: Beginning at the north-west corner of section number six, in township number four, in range number seven, in Washington county; thence south to the south-west corner of section number five in said township number four; thence east on section lines to the south-east corner of fractional section number five, in township number two, in range number five, in said county, be and the same is hereby attached to and made part of the county of Monroe, and that the said described lines constitute a part of the boundary line between said counties of Washington and Monroe."

The board of apportionment is strictly accurate when, in describing the fourteenth and nineteenth districts, it speaks of them as containing "part of the counties of Noble and Monroe." The original county of Monroe, as it existed when the constitution was adopted, lies wholly within the boundaries of the nineteenth district, but the added strip which was a part of the county of Washington at the adoption of the constitution, remains a part of the fourteenth district, as was decided by this court in Ohio ex rel. Evans vs. Dudley, first Ohio St. Rep. p. 437. It must be remembered that the board in making the apportionment dealt with districts and not with counties, and the counties are only mentioned by way of description of the districts, and in this the board followed the phraseology of previous boards. The language used by the board in forming joint districts is: "The following districts, until they acquire sufficient population to entitle them to elect separately, shall form districts in the manner following, to-wit: • • • • The ninth and fourteenth senatorial districts, composed of the counties of Athens, Hocking, Fairfield, Washington, Morgan, and part of the counties of Noble and Monroe." It is manifest that this phraseology is simply descriptive of the district, and similar phraseology is used in the constitution and by every apportionment board since.

There is nothing in the facts and circumstances of the case to warrant a construction of this phraseology which would render the action of the board violative of the constitution. Every presumption of the law is opposed to such a construction.

As to the second proposition:

POINTS.

First. That there is no warrant for the assumption that the annexation of senatorial districts under sections 5 and 8 of article XI of the constitution were intended to continue only during the decennial period, and such a construction would defeat the policy of sections 3, 4, 5 and 8 of that article by promoting gerrymandering.

Second. That the constitution does contemplate and provide for a change in the senatorial districts by two different methods, which are prescribed in sections 8 and 9 of article XI, and that original districts, when annexed, become annihilated, absolutely, unless section four provides a way by which they may be restored.

Third. That sections four and five provide a self-regulating, self-acting process of apportionment for the formation of representative districts to meet changes in population, whether by increase or by decrease, and thus preserve the equality of districts and of representation, and that section eight, by reference, makes this process, in its entirety, equally applicable to senatorial districts.

The conclusion of proposition second, as above stated, is a non-sequitur, for while it is true that plaintiff's case fails if section four be included in the reference of section eight, yet, it does not follow by any means, that his case can be maintained even if section four be excluded from that reference. The policy of sections three, four, five and eight was designed to restrict and prevent gerrymandering. Under the constitution of 1802 the apportionment of representation in the General Assembly was intrusted to the General Assembly itself, and the abuses of this power by that body induced the adoption of the scheme of apportionment prescribed by these sections. Indeed, these abuses, more than all other things combined, led to the calling of the constitutional convention of 1851. Mr. Reemelin, a member of that convention, in speaking upon this subject in the convention, said: "I suppose there is not a member of this body but will acknowledge the importance of the subject; and, in fact, I may be permitted to say, that no part of the old constitution has led to the meeting of this body so much as this subject of apportionment." First Debates, p. 99. Judge Ranney, speaking upon this subject in Evans vs. Dudley, above referred to, says: "To construct a scheme of constitutional apportionments, to endure for many years, and so far as the election of members of the General Assembly is concerned, subject to no control or alteration by that body, is a work of much difficulty, when it is considered how constantly and materially changes are being wrought in the political divisions of the State, and in the relative increase of population. And yet I am much mistaken if the system adopted by the convention is not found entirely adequate to accomplish all the substantial purposes proposed, and one of the most valuable features of the constitution. The State had been subjected to a most humiliating experience while the power was left with the General Assembly; and the scenes of anarchy and confusion, which had marked its exercise there, undoubtedly determined the people to deprive that body of it absolutely, so far as the election of their own members was concerned, for the future." And Mr. Dorsey, speaking in the convention to a proposition to establish single districts and empower the trustees of townships and councilmen of towns and cities, in counties entitled to more than one representative, to divide such county into representative districts, said: "I hope this motion will not prevail. If it should, we might as well throw away the whole report at once, for its whole excellence will be destroyed. The feature to which, more than any other, I have been attached, is its power of self-regulation. Take that away and all the abuses that have existed under the old system will return, and the changes that take place will always be made under the operation of political motives. It will make no difference whether the apportionment is made by the General Assembly or by boards of commissioners of counties and councilmen of cities. For my own part, if there is to be a system of gerrymandering, I had rather it would be done by one than by eighty-seven different bodies." Second Debates, 773.

And the subject of apportionment was first brought before the constitutional convention of 1851 by a series of resolutions introduced by Mr. Reemelin, the first two of which read as follows: "Resolved, That it is expedient so to change the present constitution of Ohio, as to take away from the General Assembly the power to apportion senators and representatives among the several counties of this State.

"Resolved, That it is expedient to engraft upon the new constitution, a provision for a self-acting apportionment of senators and representatives * * *."

It will be seen from these extracts that the abuses of power by the General Assembly, under the old constitution, in gerrymandering the State, was one of the greatest evils to be remedied by the new constitution, and that the proposition before the minds of the convention was to devise some self-acting process or scheme of apportionment which would prevent this abuse in the future, and the labors of the convention, in this behalf, were embodied in sections 3, 4, 5 and 8 of article XI, of the new constitution.

Section 3 provides for the representation of fractions of a ratio, and sections 4 and 5 provide self-regulating machinery to meet the changes of population, which might otherwise destroy the equality of districts and of representation in the State. If population falls below the representative proportion of a ratio, then under the rule of section five, the district must be attached to the adjoining district having the least number of inhabitants, but if, afterwards, population increases sufficiently, then, under the rule of section four, it may be restored to separate representation, provided, however, there be left in the territory from which it is separated sufficient population for separate representation. This self-regulating process of apportionment is expressly applied to representative districts by sections four and five, but plaintiff claims that it is applied only in part to senatorial districts, that the provision for annexing districts applies, but that there is no provision for separating them—that the provisions of section four do not apply to senatorial districts. We do not think this position can be maintained.

In the first place it is sticking in the bark to so limit the operation of the words "in annexing districts," as they are used in section eight. The framers of the constitution sought to establish, as already stated, a self-regulating, self-acting process of apportionment; by which districts could be changed to suit the changes of population, whether by increase or by decrease, and this undoubtedly was in the minds of the convention when it framed section eight, and the language: "The same rules shall be applied * * * in annexing districts," must be construed to have reference to the entire process and not merely to a part thereof. Mr. Dorsey, speaking in the convention, upon a motion to transfer Ottawa county from the 80th district, where it had been placed by the committee on apportionment, to the 83d district, expresses this view very clearly. He says: "With regard to the objection taken from the 5th section of the report, which the gentleman from Logan had attempted to apply to this district, the committee, well knowing that they could not be made answerable for the changes which might take place in the popular strength, provided in the first place, to make all the districts as nearly equal as they could with respect to population, and having regard, at the same time, to compactness of territory. And if population should increase or diminish they had provided a certain rule by which the formation of districts might be regulated for the future." Second Debates, 784.

It is apparent that the speaker had in mind the flexible, self-acting process provided by sections four and five, by which districts were to be formed either by annexation or by separation, according to the variations of population, whether by increase or diminution, and the evident intent of the framers of the constitution should not be defeated by strict or narrow construction; on the contrary, that intent should be the touch-stone for the expansion of the narrow terms of section eight, so as to give it full effect. It is said in Sutherland on Statutory Construction, section 240, that: "The presumption is that the law-maker has a definite purpose in every enactment, and has adapted and formulated the subsidiary provisions in harmony with that purpose; that these are needful to accomplish it, and that, if they have the intended effect, they will at least conduct to effectuate it. That that purpose is an implied limitation on the sense of general terms, and a touch-stone for the expansion of narrower terms. This intention affords a key to the sense and scope of minor provisions. From this assumption proceeds the general rule that the cardinal purpose or intent of the whole act shall control and that all the parts be interpreted as subsidiary and harmonious."

The construction urged by plaintiff would defeat this intent. He would, by some unexplained operation of the constitution, break up, at the end of each decennial period, all combinations and annexations theretofore made, restore the original districts to their separate character and permit the apportionment board, commencing, as in its discretion it may, at any point in the State, to make new combinations from the original districts, instead of allowing the new formations to arise through the increase or decrease of population, as provided in sections four and five, thereby enlarging instead of limiting the opportunities for gerrymandering.

But it is said that section four is not included in the reference of section eight, because section nine performs for senatorial districts the same office which section four performs for representative districts—that section nine is the counterpart of section four. In the scheme of constitutional apportionment, the unit of territorial division for representatives is the county, but for senators is the district, composed of counties. New counties may be created by the General Assembly, but new senatorial districts can only arise by annexation under the provisions of sections five and eight, or be created through the growth of a county under the provisions of section nine. The separation provided for in section four is the separation of units, but that provided for in section nine is the separation of the parts of a whole. To make section nine the counterpart of section four, it should provide for the separation of districts. Section nine has no reference to the separation of counties or districts annexed under the provisions of sections five and eight, but was intended to meet the case of a county growing large enough to withdraw from its associates and enjoy separate representation, as Lucas county will probably do in 1901. A county able to bring itself within the provisions of section nine may enjoy separate representation, whether it be part of an original or a joint district. The annexation of districts under the provisions of sections five and eight can in no way impair this right.

Contemporaneous construction of these sections is opposed to the plaintiff's view of this case. The only annexation of districts made by the apportionment of 1861, to-wit: that of the seventeenth and twenty-eighth districts, has been continued ever since, and the apportionment board of 1881 in making provision for the representation of this district, used this language: "The seventeenth district, composed of the counties of Knox and Morrow, and the twenty-eighth district, composed of the counties of Wayne and Holmes, having been annexed at the last preceding apportionment, and not having acquired sufficient population to entitle them to elect separately, shall be entitled to one senator in each session of the decennial period." And this language, I am advised, is that of one of the most distinguished jurists of the State, who was consulted with reference to that apportionment.

But, in the next place, if the provisions of section four do not apply to senatorial districts, then there is no provision in the constitution for the separation of annexed districts.

Section five, when applied to senatorial districts, should read as follows: "If, in fixing any subsequent ratio, a district previously entitled to separate representation, shall have less than the number required by the new ratio for a senator, such district shall be attached to the district adjoining it, having the least number of inhabitants; and the representation of the district, so formed, shall be determined as herein provided." The last paragraph of this section is significant: "And the representation of the district, so formed, shall be determined as herein provided." Not so formed temporarily; not so formed for one decennial period alone, but simply "so formed;" and representation is to be provided as in other cases—is to be provided as for original districts.

Section ten recognizes the operation of sections five and eight as working a change in senatorial districts. That section provides that "no change shall ever be made • • • in the senatorial districts, except as above provided." And Judge Ranney, in Evans vs. Dudley above referred to, after quoting this language, says: "The exception refers to the eighth and ninth sections, the first of which, provides for the apportionment of fractions, after the first ten years, and for annexing districts which may fall below three-fourths of a senatorial ratio to an adjoining district; and the last gives to any county included in a senatorial district, which has acquired a population equal to a full senatorial ratio, the right at any regular decennial apportionment, to be made into a separate senatorial district, if a full senatorial ratio is left in the district from which it is taken. Subject to these qualifications * * * the districts formed by the constitution must forever remain unchanged."

It can not be inferred from any thing found in either section five or ten that the change made in senatorial districts by annexation is to be merely temporary—a change simply for one decennial period. The language of Judge Ranney just quoted is certainly opposed to such an interpretation. In the face of these provisions of the constitution itself for a change in senatorial districts and in despite of the interpretation of these provisions by this court, the plaintiff seems to found his case upon the assumption of the absolute unchangeability and indestructibility of the senatorial districts created by the constitution, and from such premises argues with great facility that the annexation of districts under sections five and eight is but for the decennial period and that new combinations of the original districts must be made at each apportionment. In this he begs the question in the case: Whether the change, in these districts, authorized and required by sections five and eight is for the decennial period alone?

It is said, "Nowhere does the constitution recognize nor designate a joint district as a district, hence, the use of the terms 'each district' (as used in section eleven) in respect to senatorial districts, means the constitutional district." But, as a matter of fact, section five does recognize a district, formed from two original districts and provides that 'the district, so formed,' shall have representation as provided for all other districts. So that there is nothing in the suggestion that joint districts are not recognized in the constitution. But it is said again that the provisions of section eleven which require the board for each decennial period to ascertain, etc., the ratio of representation, etc., for 'each district,' etc., force "the conclusion that when the constitution speaks of a senatorial district, it means a constitutional district." This argument, of course, is based upon the assumption of the indestructibility of the original districts. In the absence of such an assumption the words "each district" may as well refer to the joint districts authorized by section five as to original districts.

It seems to me that annexation, within the meaning of sections five and eight, means annihilation of the districts concerned and the formation of a new district out of their territory, unless they can be rescued and restored under the provisions of section four; and this seems to have been the opinion of the members of the constitutional convention.

Upon a proposition to amend section eight of the report of the committee on apportionment, now section eight of the eleventh article of the constitution, by striking out the words "three-fourths" and inserting the words "two-thirds," so that only districts having less than two-thirds of a senatorial ratio should be subject to annexation, Mr. Otis said: "It is merely this and nothing more; the report of the committee as amended, provides that when a county (district) falls below two-thirds, it shall be merged in a neighboring district; this amendment secures against such a merger, if it has two-thirds the ratio."

Mr. Humphreville said: "As amended in the committee of the whole, the section provides that if any district in existence at any one of the decennial periods shall fall below three-fourths the ratio fixed for the apportionment at that time, it shall be annihilated, and its territory annexed to the neighboring district having the smallest population. * * * Unless we make it lower than three-fourths, some of the districts will have to be annihilated at the next decennial period."

Mr. Holmes said: "The proposition is simply whether a senator shall be given for two-thirds or three-fourths the constitutional ratio, to those counties that would otherwise have to be absorbed."

Judge Ranney, who was a member of the constitutional convention, said: "By the provision as it now stands, any district of the whole thirty-five, into which the State is divided, if its population shall fall below the ratio then fixed, will be blotted out. I do not want to destroy the system that has been prepared with so much care, and upon which so much labor has been bestowed. Take the cases of the counties of Lorain and Medina, with a population of fifty thousand. They have less than the ratio, but under the provisions of this bill are entitled to a senator. Suppose these counties do not increase in population during the next ten years; but the State, in the meantime increases, and the ratio is raised to seventy-five thousand. Suppose three-fourths the ratio were required in order to entitle the district to a representative. Three-fourths of seventy-five is fifty-six thousand, and the district not having that aggregate would be stricken out; if it was two-thirds, the result would be fifty thousand, and the district would remain. The question is, how low you will permit the district to come rather than to destroy them. Now, we have been exceedingly liberal in regard to representation in the lower house. Counties that have half the ratio are permitted a representative, and it is only those that fall below one-half that are annexed. I propose that the senate shall be treated in the same way, and that unless the districts fall below two-thirds they shall not be annihilated."

Mr. Bennett said: "There are some thirteen districts now established that fall below the ratio in population, and they have each a senator awarded to them. I do not complain of this; but let us look forward a little. Suppose these do not increase in numerical force any faster for ten years to come (for it will not do for them to increase just as fast); the result will be that at the next decennial period, whatever the ratio may be, they will all fall below it, and be annihilated. There are, as I said, some thirteen or fourteen now established, which by that process, will be annihilated as districts, and their territory will be annexed to that which is contiguous." II. Debates 768, 769, 779.

In the original scheme Hamilton county was to be divided into two senatorial districts, one covering the city and the other covering the county outside of the city, the city having a population of 115,438 and the county outside of the city a population of 41,412. Mr. Holmes, of Hamilton county, at first was opposed to the "two-thirds" amendment on the ground that it would "move the city of Cincinnati out of the county of Hamilton." But Mr. Otis explained: "Take the rule as it stands in the amendment of the committee of the whole and apply it, for instance to the county of Hamilton, without the city of Cincinnati, and what is the result? Hamilton county has 41,412 inhabitants; three-fourths the ratio would be 42,446, so that having less than that amount, she would have no senator. Take, however, two-thirds the ratio, which is 37,732, and it gives her one." And in that way proving that Hamilton county would not be in danger of annexation to some outside district (thus separating the county and city), he converted Mr. Holmes to the support of the "two-thirds" amendment, for Mr. Holmes afterward said: "I did not fully apprehend the force of the amendment when it was offered. Understanding it better, I am constrained to withdraw my objections to it."

These were able men, trained thinkers, representative men in the convention, men who it must be presumed, from the silence of the others, represented the views and the judgment of the convention. They were educated men and fully appreciated the meaning, and force of the language they used, and yet in all their utterances there is not one qualifying word or phrase or suggestion indicating that the convention intended that the annexation of senatorial districts under the provisions of sections 5 and 8 should be merely temporary—should be made merely for a decennial period. The strongest language possible was used to indicate the contrary opinion—"merger," "annihilated," "territory annexed to the neighboring district," "absorbed," "blotted out," "stricken out," "destroyed," "territory annexed to that which is contiguous." If it was not the understanding of these men that annexation meant something more than the change of a district for a decennial period—meant indeed a change that might be permanent, which would be permanent unless the annexed districts could at some future time bring themselves within the provisions of section 4, then the language used by them was wholly inappropriate and must stamp them as men of loose and careless speech, or so ignorant as to be incapable of comprehending the force and bearing of the language they used. Who will make this charge against these men? They were leaders of the people in their day, men of learning, thoughtful men, men of high character and commanding public confidence because of their conscientious regard for duty.

In conclusion :

It would seem first that while the reasons for annexation continue, the districts should remain joined. Until by increase of population they become entitled to separate representation, they should remain joined. Otherwise, to break them up and compel new combinations of original districts at each apportionment, would simply afford facilities for gerrymandering, by increasing the number of districts and giving broader and freer scope for partisan manipulation. What else, than this, could result from the breaking up of the long association of the seventeenth and twenty-eighth districts, which has continued from 1861 to the present time? Neither of these districts has sufficient population to entitle them to separate representation. Their people are acquainted with each other, they have been accustomed to act together in public affairs, there is that homogeneity that comes from long association which is desirable in the territorial divisions of the State for political purposes; and yet it is proposed to break up this association solely for the purpose of increasing the number of units which may be manipulated by an apportionment board at each decennial period. I repeat, the reason for these annexations is opposed to their separation unless through increase of population, they become entitled to separate representation.

Second, contemporaneous construction supports our view of the case, and lastly, it is fully and completely sustained by the plain intention of the framers of the constitution as appears from the journals of their proceedings.

Sutherland in his work on Statutory Construction in section 300, says : "It was held in State vs. Clokey that, in the interpretation of words used in the constitution, the court may derive such aid as may be afforded by looking to the journals of the convention which framed that instrument, to ascertain in what sense such words were used by the convention.

STATE EX REL. V. CAMPBELL.

Decennial Apportionment of the State for Members of the General Assembly—Action of Board—When may be Directed by Mandamus—When not—Apportionment of April 13, 1891, a valid one.

1. Where the Governor, Auditor and Secretary of State, or a majority of them, as the board created by section 11, of article XI, of the constitution, for the decennial apportionment of the State for members of the General Assembly, have made an apportionment, they can not be required by mandamus, or otherwise, to make another apportionment, unless the apportionment as made so far disregards the principles prescribed by the constitution, as to warrant the court in saying that it is no apportionment, and should be treated as a nullity.

2. The apportionment made by the board, concurred in by the Auditor and Secretary of State, at the session of the board held April 13, 1891, does not violate any of the principles prescribed by the constitution, and is a valid apportionment. (Decided June 16, 1891.)

Virgil C. Lowry, John S. Friesner and T. E. Powell, for the Relator.

D. K. Watson, Attorney-General, and A. C. Thompson, for the Defendants.

—Minshall, J.

On April 13, 1891, the Governor, Auditor and Secretary of State, acting under the power conferred on them as a board by the 11th section of the 11th article of the constitution, proceeded to and did make an apportionment, for members of the General Assembly of the State, for the decennial period commencing 1891. It is claimed that in making the senatorial apportionment the provisions of the constitution have been disregarded, and that the board should, by order of this court, be compelled to make a new one.

It is evident that in exercising the jurisdiction here invoked, this court can not, as a court of appeal, review what has been done by the board in making a senatorial apportionment of the State. No such power is conferred upon this, or any other court of the State by the constitution, over the officers designated by it to make the apportionment in question; and if it were, it could not be exercised in a proceeding in mandamus, the purpose of which jurisdiction is to compel a board or tribunal to exercise its powers or jurisdiction, not to control its discretion or supervise its proceedings. Such jurisdiction is appellate, and can only be exercised, when conferred, in a proper proceeding for that purpose. In treating the subject of jurisdiction in mandamus, Mr. High, in his work on Extraordinary Legal Remedies, § 24, says: "Stated in general terms, the principle is that mandamus will lie to compel the performance of duties purely ministerial in their nature, and so clear and specific that no element of discretion is left in their performance, but that as to all acts or duties necessarily calling for the exercise of judgment and discretion, on the part of the officer or body at whose hands their performance is required, mandamus will not lie. The application of the rule is universal, and its illustrations are as multiform as are applications for the aid of this extraordinary remedy. It applies with special force to cases where the aid of mandamus is sought against inferior courts or judges, public officers, municipal authorities and corporate officers generally, and in all these cases it is the determining principle in guiding the courts to a correct conclusion. And," he continues, "whenever such officers or bodies are vested with discretionary power as to the performance of any duty required at their hands, or where in reaching a given result of official action they are necessarily obliged to use some degree of judgment and discretion, while mandamus will lie to set them in motion and to compel action upon the matters in controversy, it will in no manner interfere with the exercise of such discretion, nor control or dictate the judgment or decision which shall be reached." See also, Moses on Mandamus, 15; and Ex parte Black, 1 Ohio St. 30, 37.

Hence it is not sufficient in this proceeding that we might be of the opinion that we could make a better apportionment than has been made by the board: To authorize this court to interfere and command the board to make another apportionment, the apportionment made must so far violate the rules prescribed by the constitution, as to enable us to say, that what has been done is no apportionment at all, and should be wholly disregarded. If by any fair construction of the principles prescribed by the constitution for making an apportionment, the one made may be sustained, then it can not be disregarded and a new one ordered.

The subject is provided for by the eleventh article of the constitution entitled, "Apportionment." The first section provides that the apportionment of the State for members of the General Assembly shall be made every ten years after the year 1851, as provided in that article. The first five sections make provision, in terms, for the apportionment of representatives among the counties of the State in the House of Representatives. The sixth to the ninth, inclusive, relate exclusively to the method of senatorial apportionment. The tenth contains this provision, "and no change shall ever be made in the principles of representation, as herein established, or, in the senatorial districts, except as above established. By the sixth section the method of ascertaining the ratio for a senator at any subsequent apportionment is prescribed; that is to say, it is to be "ascertained by dividing the whole population of the State by the number thirty-five." By the seventh, the counties of the State are divided into thirty-three senatorial districts, the county of Hamilton being one. The other two sections are as follows:

"Section 8. The same rule shall be applied, in apportioning the fractions of senatorial districts, and in annexing districts which may hereafter have less than three-fourths of a senatorial ratio, as are applied to representative districts.

"Section 9. Any county forming part of a senatorial district, having acquired a population equal to a full senatorial ratio, shall be made a separate senatorial district at any regular decennial apportionment, if a full senatorial ratio shall be left in the district from which it shall be taken."

Now it is not disputed but that the third and fifth sections, which, by their terms, apply only to representative apportionment, apply also, by the reference contained in the eighth section, to senatorial apportionment; so that, in apportioning fractions and annexing districts which may have less than three-fourths of a ratio, the same rule is to be applied as are applied by these sections respectively to representative districts. That is to say, by the third section, when any senatorial district shall have a fraction above the ratio so large, that being multiplied by five, the result would be equal to one or more senatorial ratios, additional senators shall be apportioned for such ratios, among the several sessions of the decennial period, as is done in the case of representative districts. And by section five, if, in fixing any subsequent senatorial ratio, a district, previously entitled to separate senatorial representation, shall have less than the number required by the new ratio for a senator, such district shall be attached to the district adjoining it, having the least number of inhabitants; and the senatorial representation of the district so formed, must then be determined as therein provided. But it is also claimed by the defendants, that, by the reference contained in section eight, the provisions of section four are also made applicable to senatorial apportionment as well as sections three and five. This is controverted by the relator. This section would, on the claim of the defendants, mutatis mutandis, read as follows: Any district, forming with another district or districts a senatorial district, during one decennial period, if it have acquired sufficient population at the next decennial period, shall be entitled to separate representation, if there be left in the district from which it shall have been separated, a population sufficient for a senator; but no such change shall be made, except at the regular decennial period for the apportionment of senators. Under the provisions of this section so applied, it is argued that when a district is once annexed to another under the provisions of section five, the district so formed continues to be a senatorial district through each succeeding decennial period, until a period is reached when, by the growth of population, it again attains a full senatorial ratio, and becomes, by the application of section four, again entitled to separate senatorial representation, provided there is left in the district from which it is to be separated, population sufficient for a senator. In support of this view is cited the practice that has obtained with reference to the district formed in 1861, by the union of the seventeenth and twenty-eighth districts, and continued to this time, and the reason given by the several boards for continuing the annexation, which seems based on the idea that section four applies to senatorial, as well as to representative districts; and argue that in the absence of any absolute requirement of the constitution, associations formed by such long continued annexation, should not be broken up by separation, when neither of the constituent districts is entitled to separate representation, and either, on being separated, must be re-annexed to some other district. On the other hand it is argued that, at the end of each decennial period, the original districts, however they may have been united by annexation, again segregate; in other words, fall apart by limitation, and that it then becomes the duty of the board to make a new apportionment without any reference to the manner in which the districts were annexed prior thereto.

There is much force in the argument of the relator; but we do not find it necessary to decide the question. For, admitting what is claimed in regard to the segregation of the original districts at the end of each decennial period, it does not follow that the apportionment made by the board should be treated as a nullity. No claim is made that, to the districts as formed, representation for fractions has not been apportioned as required by the third section. The claim is, that in the annexation of districts not having the requisite population for separate representation, according to the ascertained senatorial ratio, the requirement of the constitution that each district falling below the requisite fraction of this ratio, shall be annexed to the adjoining district having the least number of inhabitants, has been disregarded.

A senatorial ratio ascertained as required by the constitution, is, for the present decennial period, 104,924, so that a population of 78,693, three-fourths of a full ratio, is the least population a district can have and be entitled to separate representation. In consequence of the change in the relative population of the original districts, fourteen of them have lost their right to separate representation in the senate, and are each required to be attached to some other district adjoining it, having the least population. The districts to be attached are the second, fourth, fifth, sixth, fourteenth, sixteenth, seventeenth, eighteenth, nineteenth, twentieth, twenty-fourth, twenty-seventh, twenty-eighth and twenty-ninth. The relator concedes that the board has properly apportioned ten of these districts by uniting them as follows: The second with the fourth, the fifth with the sixth, the twentieth with the twenty-second, the twenty-fourth with the twenty-sixth, and the twenty-seventh with the twenty-ninth.

The other districts have been formed into joint districts as follows: The twenty-eighth, with a population of 61,148, is attached to the seventeenth, having a population of 45,720; the eighteenth, with a population of 73,321, is attached to the nineteenth, having a population of 63,461; the sixteenth, with a population of 70,468, is attached to the fifteenth, having a population of 82,361; and the fourteenth, with a population of 63,461, is attached to the ninth, having a population of 91,791. Now, regarding the districts when once united as forming a district, as they certainly do for the ensuing decennial period under the provisions of section five, and it will be observed by reference to a map of the State, that each of the above attached districts has been attached by the board to the district adjoining it having the least population, as shown by the last federal census. That is to say, commencing with the twenty-eighth as the district to be attached, and it is properly attached to the seventeenth; and so, in the order named, treating the eighteenth, the sixteenth and the fourteenth as the districts to be attached, and each is found to have been attached to the proper district. For example: after the eighteenth had been attached to the nineteenth, they formed a district with a population of 136,782, and after the sixteenth had been attached to the fifteenth, they formed a district with a population of 152,829. So that the only district adjoining the fourteenth to which it could be attached, after the formation of the above districts, was the ninth, having a population of 91,791.

But, it is claimed, that by uniting these districts as follows: the fourteenth with the nineteenth, the sixteenth with the seventeenth, and the eighteenth with the twenty-eighth, an apportionment would be attained in which the fractions over a ratio would be less, and a less number of districts, with the requisite fractional ratio for a senator, would be deprived of separate representation. Conceding this to be so, it is not such a vice in an apportionment as to make it a nullity. The constitution nowhere prescribes the order in which the districts shall be apportioned, the limit as to fractions, nor as to separate representation based on fractional ratios. It would be a matter of some surprise had the framers of the constitution attempted to do so, as such rules could only have been based upon such foreknowledge of the future growth and distribution of the population of the State, as could not then have been possessed by any set of men. Moreover, these opposed vices are not unmixed evils. Separate representation, based upon less than a full ratio, is unequal representation. It gives to a district with a population of 74,693 the same representation in the senate as a district with 104,924. Hence an apportionment which, by annexation where annexation becomes necessary, reduces instead of increasing, this kind of unequal representation, is subject to no objection based upon the constitution itself.

On the other hand, where a district has over a full ratio, the fractions are not unrepresented; representation for the fractions is provided for in the third section. Where, however, a district has three-fourths of, but less than a ratio, full representation is allowed it, as a separate district, for the full decennial period. Here are cogent reasons why the constitution does not undertake to limit the districts to which annexations may be made by any other limitation, than that, in each case, the district shall be the adjoining one, having the least number of inhabitants. The right of a district to separate representation can not be opposed to the power of the board, in making an apportionment, to annex to it another district, when, by the terms of the constitution, its population and location permit the annexation to be made. The matter rests in the sound discretion of the board, and can not be controlled by the courts in any form of proceeding, unless, as before stated, it so far disregards the rules prescribed by the constitution, as to enable a court to say that what it has done, is a mere nullity. If, as claimed, the duties to be performed by the board, are ministerial—a mere matter of calculation, then there is but one way in which the apportionment for a given decennial period can be made; and one could make it as well as a dozen, if not better; and no reason is perceived why the duty should have been confided to the three principal executive officers of the State. The very fact that the Governor, Auditor and Secretary of State are consociated as a board to apportion the State for members of the General Assembly, shows of itself, that, in the judgment of the framers of the constitution, in applying the rules prescribed, a discretion would have to be exercised and these officers were selected to exercise it. Whether the discretion conferred on the board, has been wisely or unwisely exercised in this instance, is immaterial in this proceeding. It is sufficient that they had the power under the constitution to make the apportionment as they have made it. For the wisdom, or unwisdom, of what they have done, within the limits of the powers conferred, they are answerable to the electors of the State, and no one else.

Another objection is made, though not insisted on in argument, that the board has violated the constitution in assuming to create new districts, by changing the territorial limits of the fourteenth and nineteenth districts, so as to include in each portions of the counties of Monroe and Noble. The explanation is this: The day after the constitution was adopted by the framers, containing the senatorial districts as formed by the convention, the legislature then in session under the constitution of 1802, by an act passed March 11, 1851, created the county of Noble, partly from the territory of each of the following counties as they then existed, to-wit: Morgan, Guernsey, Monroe and Washington; and also, by the second section of the same act, attached three townships of the county of Washington, situate on its north-eastern border, to the county of Monroe. 49 Laws, 187. The validity of this act was sustained in State ex rel Evans v. Dudley, 1 Ohio St. 437. The constitution, as framed by the convention, was afterwards adopted by the people, without any change being made in the senatorial districts established by it. So that by reason of the provision of the constitution, above referred to, that no change shall be made in the senatorial districts therein formed, except as therein provided, parts of the county of Washington are in the nineteenth district, and parts of the counties of Monroe and Noble are in the fourteenth district; and this apparent anomaly in senatorial apportionment has necessarily been perpetuated to this time, and will have to be continued until the constitution can be amended.

We are therefore of the opinion that the senatorial apportionment for the General Assembly of the State, made by the board at its session on the 13th day of April, 1891, is a valid apportionment, and that the writ prayed for should be refused.

* From 1803 to 1850 the Secretary of State was elected by the General Assembly.

† The Democratic party of to-day claims lineal descent from the first Republican party with President Jefferson as its founder. Authorities differ as to the date when the party dropped the name Republican and assumed that of Democrat, it being ascribed to various dates between 1805 and 1820.

‡ Political parties were disorganized at the time of the election of John Q. Adams. He claimed to be a Republican as Jefferson, but his doctrines were decidedly federalistic. The opposition to his administration took the name of Democrat, and elected Jackson President in 1828.
